'Desert Cromwell'

Montgomery Beats Nazis at Their Own Style of Warfare

Following is the third and last of a series of dispatches on Gen. Sir Bernard L. Montgomery, commander of the Eighth Army and outstanding leader in the Allied drive on Tunis.—EDITOR.

LONDON, April 28.—Gen. Sir Bernard L. Montgomery's exploits in the North African war have earned him the name of "the desert Cromwell." He believes in a blood-and-iron policy. He quotes the Bible to his men.

But to correspondents who watched him—as I did—break Nazi Marshal Erwin Rommel's veteran Africa Corps and drive them 2,000 miles across the desert he was a general who violated all of the Nazis well-proved rules of warfare—and still beat them at every turn.

Richard D. MacMillan

Montgomery, ready to gamble when necessary but always striving to mass strength that leaves nothing to chance, is the man who brought the infantry back into its own in this war. Today, in the rocky hills of Tunisia his infantry is proving itself on ground where tanks are helpless.

Montgomery surprised the Germans with his tactics at El Alamein when, after carrying out a clever bluff of camouflaging his armored strength, he sent his toughest infantry into moonlight battle ahead of tanks. Since that day he has made the infantry the spearhead of all of his big attacks in direct contradiction to the Nazis slavish devotion to armored warfare. Sometimes the infantry attacks on moonlit nights, but at the Gabes Gap, Montgomery again crossed up the enemy, by attacking in the dark of the moon under a terrific artillery bombardment.

Most Diversified Troops of War

He has armed his Eighth Army veterans with long, ten-inch knives, too, and they fight in Commando fashion when the opportunity offers as it does now in the hills of northern Tunisia. Never were troops more diversified—Indians, High-

Visiting City

F. Hedley Marsh, Toronto, president of the Bank of Toronto, who predicted that Edmonton must enjoy a rapidly increasing importance as a supply distributing centre. He is in Edmonton on a tour of inspection of western branches.

Banker Here

Looks Toward Post-War Era Of Development

Confidence as to Canada's future in the post-war years was expressed by F. H. Marsh, Toronto, president of the Bank of Toronto, in an interview here Tuesday.

The great natural resources of power, agriculture, timber, gold, base metals, coal and oil and their future development should permit Canada, more readily and successfully to meet the transition period from war to peace economy, he said.

Mr. Marsh is no stranger to Western Canada. He started in the banking business at Rat Portage, now Kenora, in 1898, and remained at Winnipeg until 1901 when he went to British Columbia for four years, serving at Golden, Vancouver, Cranbrook from 1921 to 1928, and as he stated, "I am not exactly a Easterner."

From 1921 to 1928 inclusive he was western superintendent for the bank, and since then has made frequent visits. This is his first visit west since assuming the presidency.

He foresaw in the post-war period the development of the great stretches of land in Northern Alberta, and the establishment of rail, air and highway communications to serve this hinterland.

GREATER IMPORTANCE

Edmonton, he said, must enjoy a rapidly increasing importance as a great supply distributing centre, and is faced with business opportunities and responsibilities equal to if not greater than any other city in Canada.

He said that Canada enjoyed a most favored position in this troubled world, and should be able to provide opportunities of employment for her population beyond that of any other nation.

Commenting on the Fourth Victory Loan he expressed confidence that the objective would be achieved, and stressed that chartered banks in Canada were doing their utmost to make the loan a success. He added that the ready response was being given the banks efforts by the public with savings deposits.

Off French Coast

British Destroyers Smash Nazi Convoy

LONDON, April 28.—(AP)—Two British destroyers, attacking "an unusually large number" of German escort craft in convoy off the coast of Brittany before dawn today, torpedoed and probably sank two supply vehicles, and almost certainly sank two of the escorts and caused a motor torpedo boat to blow up with their shell fire, the admiralty announced today.

The Admiralty said the attack was pressed home by the destroyers Goathland and Albrighton, which suffered a small number of casualties and slight damage.

The attack caused considerable confusion among the enemy forces the communique said, and "several of their ships were seen firing on each other."

The melee lasted more than an hour, the communique added.

NEW YORK, April 28.—(AP)—German and British light naval forces clashed in the channel off the coast of Brittany early Wednesday, the German radio asserted in a broadcast, recorded by the Associated Press.

The Germans claimed that in a two-hour fight their craft scored several heavy hits on enemy destroyers and that the German units—the broadcast did not say what type of boat they were—returned safely to their bases.

Past Last Year's Mark

Two-Day Victory Loan Sales at $913,000 for Northern Part of Province

With residents of Northern Alberta district points subscribing more than double the amount invested in the first two days of the last Victory Loan the total sales in the northern part of the province had climbed to $913,100 at the close of business on Tuesday, it was announced by loan officials here.

Of this amount $296,850 had been subscribed by district residents, and $616,250 by Edmontonians. Total sales for the province as tabulated on Tuesday night amounted to $2,946,100, with Tuesday's sales totalling $853,700.

In the district 1,053 subscribers participated in the buying on Monday and Tuesday purchasing a total of $296,250 compared with 545 for the first two days of the November loan when $132,100 had been subscribed.

Swinging into high gear the Edmonton sales force in the Fourth Victory Loan drive, serviced 540 applicants for bonds amounting to $265,050, to bring the total in the general sales and payroll savings division to $433,750 for the first two days of the campaign. The special names division reported seven sales in the two days totalling $182,500, to bring the total in Edmonton to $616,250, or seven per cent. of the quota of $9,000,000.

The two-day purchases of district residents is 7.5 per cent of the quota of $5,964,000 set for rural Northern Alberta.

Loan officials at headquarters expressed gratification of the remarkable showing made in the first two days of the campaign in the district divisions.

Only 40 of the sixty divisions have reported to the central office to date and already the loan subscriptions are more than 100 per cent higher than in the last loan.

$118,245,250 Is Loan Total For First Two Days

OTTAWA, April 28.—(CP)—National headquarters of the Fourth Victory Loan reported today that subscriptions totalled $118,245,250 during the first two days of the three-week campaign for a minimum of $1,100,000,000.

The loan campaign opened Monday with subscriptions of $65,295,750, and Tuesday's subscriptions were $54,949,500. The total of $118,245,250 for the first two days compares with $92,534,000 in the same period of the third Victory loan last spring, but at that time the minimum objective was only $750,000,000.

Tuesday's subscriptions of $54,949,500 were almost $15,000,000 above the $40,019,800 subscribed on the same day of the preceding campaign.

BIG SUBSCRIPTIONS

Leading off life insurance company subscriptions was Imperial Life Assurance Co. of Canada, Toronto, with $6,000,000. General Motors of Canada, Ltd., Oshawa, Ont., subscribed $4,000,000; Guaranty Trust Co. of Canada $1,000,000; City of London, Ont., sinking fund $1,000,000.

British Columbia Electric Railway Co., Ltd., Vancouver, subscribed $3,000,000; General Steel Wares, Ltd.,

Expect Leningrad Battle to Erupt

MOSCOW, April 28.—Soviet bombers and artillery shattered German military trains and enemy strong points in a systematic hombardment today while the lull on ground fighting continued.

The British radio quoted Stockholm reports that both the Germans and Russians are making preparations for large-scale activity on the Leningrad front.)

At least four trains, one of them loaded with German army trucks, were destroyed in two Soviet air raids in 24 hours south of Bakhleya in the Ukraine, the Russian high command announced on the artillery and machine-guns demolished several dugouts and pillboxes in the same area.

58,000 Miners Stage Walkout

WASHINGTON, April 28.—(AP)—More than 58,000 United States soft coal miners stayed away from work today in a wage dispute threatening to develop into a full-scale strike in the industry.

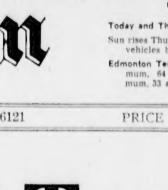

Talk of the possible use of troops as guards to protect those who might want to work was heard as mines began closing down one after another in Pennsylvania, Kentucky, Alabama and West Virginia.

The War Labor Board took up the case in closed hearings; as yet the walkouts were not officially regarded as strikes.

Hit Axis Ship

LONDON, April 28.—(CP)—British aircraft of the Coastal Command scored a torpedo hit on a medium-sized enemy merchantman off the Norwegian coast yesterday afternoon and returned without loss, the air ministry reported in a communique today.

Admiral Sir Henry Harwood, hero of the Graf Spee battle early in the war, has resigned his command of the Eastern Mediterranean fleet due to illness, it was announced today.

On Rest Periods

Dispute Closes Boeing Plants At Vancouver

VANCOUVER, April 28.—(CP)—Vancouver and Sea Island plants of Boeing Aircraft of Canada Limited, employing some 7,800 workers, were closed down today when employees took an unauthorized 10-minute rest period.

The employees, protesting against refusal last week by Ralph P. Bell, director of aircraft production, to permit institution of the rest periods, quit work at 10 a.m. Ten minutes later power was shut off and plant whistles blew, signaling a shutdown.

Plant foremen told the workers the company had no option but to follow the orders of federal authorities who last week warned that the plants would be shut down immediately if the men insisted on taking rest periods. Labor department officials claimed the rests were unnecessary for eight-hour shift workers.

NO INCIDENTS

"The company is sorry and regrets that the action of the employees leaves it no other choice but to close the plants in accordance with government instruc-

Ontario Liberals

Harry G. Nixon Said Favorite For Leadership

TORONTO, April 28.—(CP)—Mitchell F. Hepburn, former premier of Ontario will not attend the convention of the Ontario Liberal Association here tomorrow and Thursday at which his successor as provincial leader will be chosen, it was learned today. It is understood that Mr. Hepburn, who resigned as premier last Oct. 21, will submit his resignation as party leader by letter.

TORONTO, April 28.—(CP)—Delegates to the convention of the Ontario Liberal Association are arriving here today for the opening session tomorrow with most pre-convention speculation centring on the voting for the leadership which will take place Friday afternoon.

The Evening Telegram said in a newspaper story that Harry G. Nixon, former provincial secretary, is considered to be the odds-on favorite" for the position.

The Globe and Mail said it had learned that if Mr. Nixon wins the leadership from Premier Conant, he will offer the latter the post of master of the Ontario supreme court while the Telegram said that if Mr. Conant is defeated he will

Albertan Leads Seafire Force On New Carrier

LONDON, April 28.—(CP)—It was announced today that Lieut. Willsin Martyn of Calgary is in command of the Seafire force of the new British aircraft carrier Indomitable.

The Seafire is one of the latest models of fighter planes of the British fleet air arm.

Martyn described it as "the sweetest flying machine ever made."

He joined the R.A.F. in 1938, later transferring to the fleet air arm. He won the D.F.C. in the battle of Norway in 1940, had a hand in the North African landings and helped shepherd several Malta convoys.

So far he has destroyed seven enemy planes.

Hitler Conference

NEW YORK, April 28.—(AP)—The German News Agency Transocean declared today in a broad cast datelined from Hitler's quarters that Hitler conferred Tuesday with Dr. Anton Pavelic, leader of the Croat state in occupied Yugoslavia.

Canuck Planes Lay Sea Mines

Exclusive to The Edmonton Bulletin

LONDON, April 28.—A Canadian bomber group last night mined enemy waters, a communique issued at R.C.A.F. overseas headquarters here said today.

In addition, Beaufighters of a Canadian squadron took part in an attack on shipping off Norway yesterday, it added. There were no planes lost in either operation.

Yank in R.C.A.F. Wins Sweepstake

VALETTA, Malta, April 28.—(AP)—For downing the 1,000th Axis plane destroyed by Malta-based R.A.F. planes in the war, Squadron Leader John Lynch of Alhambra, Calif., today won sweepstakes prize of (120 - $574).

Lynch, who joined the R.C.A.F. in Canada in 1941, is 25 and a former Oklahoma flying instructor.

Almost all R.A.F. members here contributed to the sweepstakes.

Lynch's victory and the shooting down of another Axis plane boosted the total bag of enemy aircraft to 1,001 today.

Fighter-bombers also attacked the Italian island airdrome of Lampedus.

"The 1,001 victory was for Malta-based planes only. Many more than 1,000 planes have been shot down over Malta. A communique last Oct. 13 marked a total of 1,000 enemy planes shot down by Malta defenders—planes and anti-aircraft. The British air ministry said Nov. 5 that a total of 1,094 had been shot down."

145 Persons Killed In Grosseto Raid

LONDON, April 28.—(CP)—An Italian News Agency broadcast from Rome recorded by Reuters today said 145 persons were killed and 168 injured in Monday's raid by American aircraft on Grosseto, north of Rome.

Units Within 21 Air Miles Of Tunis City

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN NORTH AFRICA, April 28.—(AP)—French forces striking forward in the Pont Du Fahs sector have driven southeast of the town, 34 miles from Tunis, crossed the main road from Pont Du Fahs to Djebibina, and reached the western slopes of Djebel Zaghouan, a French communique said tonight. (This presumably placed the French between five and 10 miles southeast of Pont Du Fahs, imperilling the Axis hold on that town.)

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, North Africa, April 28.—American infantry drove the enemy from three strategic hills in north Tunisia and were reported advancing on the town of Jeffna today as Allied armies again thrust forward on key sectors to within 21 airline miles of Tunis.

(The London radio said this afternoon that its correspondent with the British First Army had reported the Germans were using flame-throwing tanks on the northern sector of the Tunisian front.)

German and Italian troops in strong positions were fighting desperately to prevent an Allied break-through to the Tunis plains—only four miles away in the Pont Du Fahs sector—but a headquarters spokesman said that "it appears unlikely that the enemy will be able to offer prolonged resistance under our overwhelming pressure."

A general of the British Eighth Army, however, warned that the

Glaring Breach Censorship by U.S. Magazine

OTTAWA, April 28.—What Canadian authorities regard as one of the gravest violations by an American publication of joint understandings on the handling of vital war information of mutual interest has precipitated one of the sharpest disputes to rock Canadian-American relations since the war started.

Last week's issue of the Saturday Evening Post, former isolationist weekly magazine contained a detailed, pictured story of the great Canadian air base in Labrador. This article, it is now established, was a violation of a wartime code of censorship and treatment of war information existing between Canada and the United States. To Canadian officials, there seemed no scope for misunderstanding in clear agreements in which censorship military intelligence and armed service publicity

Bari Is Attacked By R.A.F. Planes

CAIRO, April 28.—(AP)—R.A.F. heavy bombers raided the Italian port of Bari, 50 miles north of the Taranto naval base, Monday night, following a daylight raid by United States bombers, a Middle East air communique announced today.

British fighters also attacked a small enemy freighter near Rhodes and forced the crew to abandon ship, the communique said. The vessel was last seen drifting with a heavy list to port.

All the British planes returned from the missions the announcement said.

Admiral Harwood Gives Up Command

LONDON, April 28.—(CP)—Vice-Admiral Sir Henry Harwood, victor in 1939 over the German pocket battleship Admiral Graf Spee off the Uruguayan coast, has relinquished his appointment as commander-in-chief of the British fleet in the Levant (the Eastern Mediterranean area) on medical advice.

It was announced today that he has been succeeded by Vice-Admiral Sir Ralph Leatham, formerly naval commander at Malta gm.

Sir Henry has returned to Britain. The London Gazette announced he had received the Greek War Cross from the King of the Helenes.

Gen. Montgomery Returns to Front

NEW YORK, April 28.—(CP)—The BBC said today that Gen. Sir Barnard Montgomery is back at Tunisian headquarters of his 8th Army after a brief visit to Caire, where he met a group of British soldiers repatriated after having been Axis prisoners.

Ration Coupons Due Thursdays

OTTAWA, April 28.—(CP)—Canadian housewives may use their ration coupons for sugar, tea and coffee on Thursday instead of waiting until Saturday to shop for rationed goods, the prices board announced today.

"Succeeding coupons will fall due Thursday instead of at the end of the week," a board statement said.

"The change is being made to relieve congestion in food stores, especially in urban areas, on Saturdays, the heaviest shopping days. Appeals from store-keepers and consumers alike were considered by the ration administration."

As a result of the change, following are the dates on which coupons become valid: Tea, coffee and sugar, No. five and No. six become valid Thursday, April 29, instead of May 1; butter, No. eight valid April 29—coupons No. six and seven expire May 31.

17 Persons Hurt In Derailment Of Three Cars

NORTH BAY, Ont., April 28.—(CP) — Seventeen persons were slightly injured Tuesday night when three passenger cars of a Canadian Pacific Railway train left the rails seven miles west of Chapleau, railroad officials said today.

About 40 persons were in the three cars but escaped with scratches, bruises and a slight shaking up. A doctor and a nurse were brought in from Chapleau and the passengers were allowed to continue their trip after minor treatment.

CHUNGKING, April 29.—(Thursday).—American fighter planes shot down 10 out of 40 Japanese planes that attacked Kunming in Yunnan province yesterday morning, the Central News Agency reported today.

Chinese guerillas have recaptured six towns near the Taishan, or Sacred Mountain in eastern China, according to their highly secret communique, which also noted slackening of the Japanese offensive along the Honan-Shanxi border.

Convicts Succeed In Second Break

MACON, Ga., April 28.—(AP)—Leland Harvey and D. C. Black, recaptured only Sunday after escaping from the state penitentiary at Reidsville, Ga., 11 days ago, escaped their new cell in the Bibb county (Macon) jail last night with fists and pistol fire.

BERNE, April 28.—(AP)—Dispatches from Vichy said yesterday two young Frenchmen had been executed at Nimes for sabotage against the railroads and violence against the authorities.

More Air Schools May Be Necessary In Western Canada

WINNIPEG, April 28.—(CP)—Air Vice-Marshal R. H. Collard, director of works and building for the R.C.A.F., said here today there is a possibility of an increase in the expansion of the air training plan in Canada which would necessitate the establishment of further air schools in the west.

Air Vice-Marshal Collard is one of a party of R.C.A.F. officials inspecting schools in No. 2 Training Command.

officials of both countries participated. Among other things, the agreement was that the Canadian base in Labrador was completely censored.

MAKE REPRESENTATIONS

Representations are being made to the United States government, it is learned, and Canada will ask for assurances that no further violations occur. A cor lete overhaul of existing arrangements on joint censorship is also likely.

The Great Goose Bay air base at Northwest river in Labrador is one of Canada's most dramatic war secrets. One of the sore points raised by the Saturday Evening Post article is the apparent attempt to depict this base as an American project. Under joint defence arrangements, the U.S. Army Air Force is allowed to make use of facilities created in Labrador by Canadian enterprise.

This particular base was started before the United States came into the war, and was built by the department of transport and a contractor of the department of munitions and supply, McNamara's Ltd., a Toronto firm.

The question of military control of, and censorship arrangements related to, a whole series of great defence undertakings in northern Canada, east and west, may be raised as a result of the Labrador base incident. So far the most cordial relations have existed in joint defence arrangements, though instances have required adjustment where American officers and forces have insisted on Canadian ions.

AGREEMENT BROKEN

As viewed by observers in Ottawa the Labrador base incident is not merely a case of Canadian newspapers and magazines being scooped on an important Canadian war story, but it is a case where an air-tight agreement with American authorities has been broken down on the American side. As far as being scooped is concerned, most Canadian newspapermen admit the enterprise of U.S. newsmen in getting stories. But in this case, a number of Canadian newspapermen and news agencies had requested facilities for obtaining news of the Labrador base. These requests were held in abeyance by Canadian authorities, who depended on American authorities to do likewise.

A crisis in the Canadian war information situation may result from the Labrador incident. The feeling is prevalent among Ottawa correspondents that the $1,500,000 publicity and war information set-up established here has been regularly frustrated by military intelligence circles. Some observers believe that a shake-up in the intelligence level is short due. Key intelligence officers are C.S.M. Gordon Conant, of the army, a former newspaperman; Group Capt. H. R. Stewart for the air force; Lt.-Commander C. H. Little for the navy.

INTELLIGENCE RULING

The three services have extensive publicity organizations, mainly directed by former newspapermen, and Ottawa correspondents regard them generally as aggressive and energetic in obtaining the latest details of the military aspects of the Canadian war effort. But in unanimous chant, the stone wall which news seekers encounter is an intelligence ruling.

The manner in which the Saturday Evening Post obtained the details of the Labrador base, it is understood, was that a photographer and writer obtained air passage to England from Canada and for some reason they were delayed at Goose base. They ultimately returned to the United States with an extensive series of color photographs and details of the base. How the magazine obtained permission to publish is not known.

Canadian air force officials immediately lodged protests. They have also acted on requests for facilities in covering the base by Canadian writers, and a party of Canadians has just returned from the base. Their stories will be released shortly.

There have been previous leakages of news about the Labrador base, and Canadian authorities have acted on them. The most recent was a detailed story about construction of the base, published in a Toronto trade magazine.

be given a judicial appointment by the Liberal government.

McQUESTEN HAS SUPPORT

A. W. Roebuck, M.P. for Toronto Trinity, and Hon. T. B. McQuesten, Ontario highways minister, are reported to be carrying on intensive campaign for the leadership and the Globe and Mail reported that Cabinet ministers in the Dominion cabinet will support Mr. McQuesten, who is also president of the Ontario Liberal Association.

TORONTO, April 28.—(CP)—The choicest plum in presidential nominations, political party of the Liberal Party, and prospectively of the province's Liberal government—will be dropped on some aspirant's eager hands this week.

One of Mitchell Hepburn's few remaining links with the Liberal Party will be severed here Friday when Ontario Liberals in convention choose a successor to the dynamic Mitch.

He resigned the premiership last Oct. 21 in favor of Hon. Gordon Conant, but did not relinquish his position as titular head of the party. He has since said he is through with it.

SIX IN RUNNING

Seeking the honor at the convention which opens tomorrow and votes Friday afternoon are Mr. Conant and five others. But, as in all political conventions, there is always the possibility of a dark horse.

It is taken for granted that if leadership is offered on someone other than Mr. Conant he will resign the premiership to permit formation of a government by the leader chosen in convention. There is, however, no legal requirement that he do so.

So far, apart from the present premier, these five have announced their entry: Harry Nixon, former provincial secretary; Arthur W. Roebuck, former attorney-general and now member of parliament for Toronto Trinity; Highways Minister T. B. McQuesten; Walter Thomson, president of the Toronto Central Liberal Association; A. D. Crates, former legislature member for Sault Ste. Marie.

Mr. Hepburn's position remains obscure, though it has been reported he will attend. While his attitude in provincial politics has not been finally revealed, he has announced, since quitting the premiership, that he will support John Bracken, National Progressive Conservative leader, in the next Dominion election. He retains his Elgin County seat in the legislature, won as a Liberal.

ATTACKS OTTAWA

When he quit the premiership Mr. Hepburn also gave Mr. Conant his resignation as treasurer to be be accepted when called for. The premier accepted it in February and indicated this action was due to Mr. Hepburn's attitude towards Ottawa.

A few days before that, Mr. Hepburn violently attacked the Dominion government. He charged the Ottawa administration with violating agreements made with Ontario to recoup the province for revenue lost as a result of wartime regulations.

This, partly, is the background that sharpens the contrast between this convention and the one in the same hotel in 1930 that chose Mr. Hepburn to succeed W. E. N. Sinclair, of Oshawa, as leader. By a vote of 427-97 the brash young Elgin County onion farmer, who had been elected to the house of commons only four years before, defeated Capt. Elmore Philpott. Just 33 years old, he had become known for his political daring and sharp tongue.

When he resigned the premiership he disclosed he had twice offered it to Mr. Nixon. At a luncheon in Branford a couple of months ago they reiterated their friendship and Mr. Hepburn spoke highly of his friend's chances should a leadership convention be called.

TORONTO, April 28.—(CP)—The Evening Telegram said in a news-page story yesterday that Mitchell F. Hepburn, former premier of Ontario, will attend the convention of the Ontario Liberal Association Thursday and Friday. It added that the former premier "has pledged his support to Harry C. Nixon, former provincial secretary, as a candidate for the party leadership, which will be settled at the convention.

Russia Is Asked For Release of Polish Refugees

LONDON, April 28.—Any chance for an early reconciliation between the Poles and Russians faded tonight when the Polish government-in-exile appealed for the release from Russia of Polish refugees and failed to withdraw a request for an investigation of an alleged massacre of Polish officers in the Smolensk area.

The Polish government issued a statement couched in fairly restrained language, but it did not appear to offer any basis on which the U.S. and Britain could approach Russia with arguments for resumption of Soviet Polish relations.

While the statement re-affirmed Polish desires for friendship with the Soviets, it also reaffirmed Polish territorial demands which Russia had rejected in principle.

HOLD DISCUSSIONS

The statement was issued after a round of conferences among Polish and British diplomats, followed by a Polish broadcast in an intensive campaign for the leadership and the Globe and Mail reported that Cabinet ministers in the Dominion cabinet will support Mr. McQuesten, who is also president of the Ontario Liberal Association.

TORONTO, April 28.—(CP)—The choicest plum in presidential nominations, political party of the Liberal Party, and prospectively of the province's Liberal government—will be dropped on some aspirant's eager hands this week.

One of Mitchell Hepburn's few remaining links with the Liberal Party will be severed here Friday when Ontario Liberals in convention choose a successor to the dynamic Mitch.

He resigned the premiership last Oct. 21 in favor of Hon. Gordon Conant, but did not relinquish his position as titular head of the party. He has since said he is through with it.

SIX IN RUNNING

Seeking the honor at the convention which opens tomorrow and votes Friday afternoon are Mr. Conant and five others. But, as in all political conventions, there is always the possibility of a dark horse.

It is taken for granted that if leadership is offered on someone other than Mr. Conant he will resign the premiership to permit formation of a government by the leader chosen in convention. There is, however, no legal requirement that he do so.

So far, apart from the present premier, these five have announced their entry: Harry Nixon, former provincial secretary; Arthur W. Roebuck, former attorney-general and now member of parliament for Toronto Trinity; Highways Minister T. B. McQuesten; Walter Thomson, president of the Toronto Central Liberal Association; A. D. Crates, former legislature member for Sault Ste. Marie.

Mr. Hepburn's position remains obscure, though it has been reported he will attend. While his attitude in provincial politics has not been finally revealed, he has announced, since quitting the premiership, that he will support John Bracken, National Progressive Conservative leader, in the next Dominion election. He retains his Elgin County seat in the legislature, won as a Liberal.

ATTACKS OTTAWA

When he quit the premiership Mr. Hepburn also gave Mr. Conant his resignation as treasurer to be be accepted when called for. The premier accepted it in February and indicated this action was due to Mr. Hepburn's attitude towards Ottawa.

A few days before that, Mr. Hepburn violently attacked the Dominion government. He charged the Ottawa administration with violating agreements made with Ontario to recoup the province for revenue lost as a result of wartime regulations.

This, partly, is the background that sharpens the contrast between this convention and the one in the same hotel in 1930 that chose Mr. Hepburn to succeed W. E. N. Sinclair, of Oshawa, as leader. By a vote of 427-97 the brash young Elgin County onion farmer, who had been elected to the house of commons only four years before, defeated Capt. Elmore Philpott. Just 33 years old, he had become known for his political daring and sharp tongue.

When he resigned the premiership he disclosed he had twice offered it to Mr. Nixon. At a luncheon in Branford a couple of months ago they reiterated their friendship and Mr. Hepburn spoke highly of his friend's chances should a leadership convention be called.

TORONTO, April 28.—(CP)—The Evening Telegram said in a news-page story yesterday that Mitchell F. Hepburn, former premier of Ontario, will attend the convention of the Ontario Liberal Association Thursday and Friday. It added that the former premier "has pledged his support to Harry C. Nixon, former provincial secretary, as a candidate for the party leadership, which will be settled at the convention.

Edmonton Man on Dangerous Air Photography Job in Mediterranean

By FLT.-LT. KENNETH MacGILLIVRAY
Written for The Canadian Press

VALETTA, Malta, April 28.—(CP)—A picked group of young Empire pilots, flying in what the R.A.F. calls photographic reconnaissance units, now is doing a job which is one of the most dangerous and exacting known in the air.

Pilots of these units are the "seeing eyes" of the R.A.F. Their job is to avoid fights, and the Germans know that one British P.R.U. safely returned to its own base may mean more grief for the Luftwaffe and its earthbound comrades than a whole squadron of fighters or bombers.

Flt.-Lt. Malcolm Brown, 29, a former press photographer of Toronto and Montreal, has rung up a total of 280 hours of operational P.R.U. flying time—100 in England, 75 in the western desert, and the rest in Malta.

Brown's R.C.A.F. comrades include Edwin Maloney of San Jose, Calif., a native of Edmonton. Maloney is a 230-hour man on P.R.U. work.

with the number of individuals participating slightly less than the 100 per cent mark.

The Wasketenau-Radway division went to the front in the quota achievement race on Tuesday returning $16,250 of a $40,000 quota or the equivalent of 40.6 per cent. Hardisty district was leading the race at the end of the first day with 27 per cent, and had gone back to third place in the standings Tuesday, being displaced by Edgerton district with sales of $12,750 out of a $35,000 quota for 36.4 per cent.

FOURTH PLACE

The Vegreville district, in fourth place in percentage standings, had collected $17,200 out of a $70,000 quota, or 24.5 per cent of the objective. Hughenden, with a quota of $32,000, had raised $7,800 for a mark of 23.8 per cent.

Innisfree, well down the list on Monday, came rapidly into the limelight on Tuesday and is now in sixth place in sales in the territory amounted to $6,900 out of a quota of $32,000, or 21.5 per cent of the objective.

The keenest sort of race is developing between district and Edmonton purchasers with the district subscribers leading at the end of the second day by a scant .5 per cent on a quota basis.

In the special names division in Edmonton the Edmonton Public School Board subscribed $40,000; the Edmonton Journal, $35,000; Northwestern Utilities Ltd, $100,000; Edmonton Credit Co., and Weber Bros., Ltd., $65,000 for Albert and Alvie Union No. 52 $1,500.

The Edmonton Credit Co., and Weber Bros., Ltd., subscription is subdivided as follows: $10,000 for the Lethbridge division; $10,000 for Calgary, and $25,000 for the Edmonton Credit Co., and $20,000 from Weber Bros., for the Edmonton section.

LARGE AMOUNT

The United Grain Growers Ltd., subscribed $600,000 through the Edmonton offices covering this company and its subsidiaries, subscription for the three prairie provinces.

In the payroll savings section it was announced that the staff of the Canadian Pacific Air Lines, 40 in number, had subscribed 100 per cent to the loan.

Employees of the Massey-Harris Co. reported that they had gone 10 per cent over the quota set for them, while the staff of the Edmonton Credit Co. and Weber Bros. were 40 per cent over their quota.

CHINESE HELP

A marvelous response is reported from Edmonton's Chinese population. A letter in the Chinese language was sent to all city residents of this nationality preparing them for the canvassers call. It was reported by Edmonton Weber Bros. that in not a single instance has the salesman calling on the Chinese failed to make a sale. The company in the city employing the greatest number of Chinese staff reported 100 per cent over-subscribed.

A military parade, stated to be the finest and most colorful ever staged in Edmonton, will be the major item of the campaign this week. It will be held on Friday evening. The time and route of the parade will be announced Thursday.

6 Burn to Death In Plane Crash

OAKLAND, Calif., April 28.—(AP)—Six men were reported burned to death and several others injured last night in the crash of a large United States naval transport plane in the Oakland hills.

Oakland police said ambulances from Oakland and San Leandro had removed 10 injured to hospitals.

The big plane, believed to be from the Alameda naval air station some 10 miles northwest, crashed near the Chabot golf course in the low range of hills along the east shore of San Francisco Bay. The Craft burst into flames.

There was no immediate announcement from the navy nor identification of the dead from other sources.

Allied Troops Are Within 21 Miles of Tunis

Axis still was being reinforced and would fight in the hills to the last man, dashing hopes of a quick victory regardless of when Tunis itself falls.

MENACE PONT DU FAHS

Tuesday was a day of hard fighting in which the Allied forces edged forward a few miles east of Medjez-El-Bab, where they have 10 miles to go to the plains, and around the key junction of Pont Du Fahs where French advance units pushed to the outskirts of the town and met a flurry of machine-gun and artillery fire. Fall of Pont Du Fahs would undermine the Axis south front and open one road to Tunis.

The British Eighth Army also gained a few miles in hard fighting in the hills southeast of Pont Du Fahs.

On the extreme northern sector of the Tunisian front, the French advanced along the coast to a point less than five miles from the inland lake known as Garaet Achkel and about 20 or 22 miles from Bizerte.

The American advance in the north captured three main hills—Djebel Dardyse, Djebel Azzag and Djebel Ajred—and a number of smaller heights. The capture of Djebel Ajred, however, had been reported Tuesday in a British United Press dispatch from the front which told of the Americans being repulsed at Djebel Azzag.

TAKE STRATEGIC HILLS

The American 2nd Corps, fighting along the Sedjenane road toward Mateur, drove the enemy off Djebel Dardyse, which lies six miles west of Garaet Achkel. This advance was made by the northern wing of the American forces, which had yesterday encountered strong Nazi positions.

A few miles farther south, the Americans captured two strategic hills called Djebel Azzag and Djebel Ajred, which lie on opposite sides of the road from Sedjenane to Mateur. A dispatch from British United Press Correspondent R. G. Cunningham with the American forces said that infantry cleaned up these heights late Tuesday after hard fighting in which they were once hurled back from the slopes of Djebel Azzag. They also occupied Sidi N'Sir.

Moving against the village of Jeffna, 12 miles from Mateur, the Americans stormed two hills rising 1,200 and 1,900 feet and consolidated their positions, after which they began pushing forward through the mine fields.

NEW ADVANCES

Farther to the south, the British 1st Army made new advances despite a few German counter-attacks against the Allied salient east and northeast of Medjez-El-Bab, where the Imperials are within eight miles of the Tebourba Junction and 25 miles of Tunis. The British spearhead has reached a point 400 yards from the summit of Djebel Bou Aoukaz in heavy fighting. They took 30 to 40 prisoners.

Below Djebel Bou Aoukaz, at a point 12 miles east of Medjez, a famous British regiment charged up the hill called Sidi Abdallah and captured the summit. The Germans, however, made one strong counter-attack with tanks and infantry and drove off the Imperials.

In the area to the south, the First Army tanks continued hammering a deep salient west and northwest of Pont du Fahs but there was little change in the general situation. French hands below Pont du Fahs,

War News Summary

WEDNESDAY, APRIL 28

Tunisia: Allied troops cracking deep into the northern and southern barriers of the Tunis-Bizerte zone made "steady progress," headquarters announced today as the battle of Tunisia approached the hour of decision.

The communique indicated that the Germans, fighting desperately to prevent being split into two pockets, were putting up stiffer resistance on the central front guarding the open plain before Tunis.

Russia: Soviet headquarters said the Red army's big guns destroyed 10 German blockhouses and dugouts "west of Rostov" and this suggested that the Russians were beginning to hammer the long-held Nazi stronghold at Taganrog on the Sea of Azov. A war map published by Hitler's newspaper yesterday said the battle line "touches" Taganrog.

Air War: Britain's home-based bombers gave Germany an overnight rest after Monday night's tempestuous assault on Duisburg, but R.A.F. and American heavy bombers from the Middle East renewed the attack on the southern end of Hitler's European fortress, raiding the Italian airdrome at Bari on the Adriatic coast.

Southwest Pacific: Allied bombers blast two 4,000-ton Japanese ships, wreck enemy wireless station.

B.C. Conservatives Seek Deportation Of All Japanese

VANCOUVER, April 28.—(CP)—A resolution urging that "no negotiations preparatory to a peace treaty be entered into on behalf of Canada until a definite policy has been adopted for the return of all people of Japanese origin to Japan," was endorsed unanimously at the recent quarterly meeting of the executive of the British Columbia Progressive Conservative Association, it was announced yesterday. The resolution states that if necessary a special session of the provincial legislature should be convened to deal with the matter.

De Gaulle, Giraud Meeting Is Likely

LONDON, April 28.—(CP)—Dispatches from Algiers today quoted reliable sources as saying there appeared to be increasing possibility that Gen. Charles de Gaulle and Gen. Henri Giraud would meet as there shortly to discuss unification of the French elements now battling the Axis.

The Germans contested every inch of ground.

It was just south of this front that the French were threatening Pont du Fahs from the south while the British Eighth Army, closing in from the southeast, gained two or three miles in the Djebel Mderker area.

Around-Clock Bombing Can Shorten War

NEW YORK, April 28.—Air Vice-Marshal F. MacNeece Foster of the Royal Air Force, predicted today that "round-the-clock bombing of Germany could shorten the war in Europe and bring closer the day of turning the full weight of the Allies against Japan.

Foster, in an address before the Canadian Club, said the R.A.F., R.C.A.F. and the U.S. Army Air Force had produced the ideal combination in day and night bombing for striking a decisive blow on Germany's power to wage war.

Recent experience has shown, he explained, that both types of bombing could be undertaken effectively under the conditions in the European theatre, but he added that "the one great advantage of an effective air offensive by day over Germany is more aircraft."

"It is safe to say that no experiment has ever been watched by the Royal Air Force with greater keenness and a greater desire for its success," Foster said. "For none knew better than they (airmen) that daylight precision bombing was the look-for and natural complement of night bombing. It offered immense possibilities, not only for adding to the systematic bombing, of strategic targets, but for the further attrition and exhaustion of the German air force."

tions." and a statement read to the workers.

The employees were asked to go home in orderly fashion, pending final settlement, and they trooped out of the four plants without incident.

"We intend to take 10-minute rest periods, two to each eight-hour shift, using the time for union spokesmen to plug for the Victory Bond drive," said William Turner, recording secretary of Aeronautical Mechanics' Lodge No. 756 (A.F.L.) whose executive was instructed at a Sunday mass meeting to set this morning as the deadline for an answer from the company.

Turner said that last Friday he wired Munitions Minister Howe asking confirmation that the government would close the plants if the men insisted on taking rest periods. Turner said he had heard nothing up to 10 a.m. today.

OTTAWA, April 28.—(CP)—A labor department spokesman said consideration is being given today to a resolution adopted by a mass meeting of Vancouver and district aircraft workers demanding two 10-minute rest periods per eight-hour shift in the Boeing aircraft and Canadian Pacific Air Lines plants.

Consideration of the men's demand was the outstanding feature to the city of Munitions Minister Howe.

landers, Grenadier Guards and Cockney ex-storekeepers from London's East Side—and never were soldiers called upon to fight in more varied conditions than in North Africa. But Montgomery's demands for physical fitness were so rigid that his soldiers rapidly adapted themselves to either desert or siege warfare.

Another secret of Montgomery's success as a tactician is his famous big gun barrage, which also is a throwback to the First World War. His method is simple. The British guns lay down an intense barrage and then lift it slowly, permitting the front line troops, with bayonets fixed, to advance against the German anti-tank gunners. In darkness or in daylight as the circumstances dictate, they try to outflank and wipe out the anti-tank positions. Then the British tanks crash into the enemy positions in massed formation.

Montgomery's personal courage and example has much to do with the success of the Eighth Army. Once aboard his tank on the battlefield at El Aqqaqir, I watched him move among the burning German armored units. He came upon a silent British artillery post.

Always Keeps His Word

"What's the matter?" he asked the British officer in charge.

"We have only a few rounds left," the officer replied, pointing out that he was saving his ammunition for a greater emergency.

"A few rounds?" Montgomery echoed. "Well, fire them, and at 4 o'clock you'll get double reinforcements."

The officer obeyed and, sure enough, more shells had arrived by 4 p.m.

"There you are," the officer told his crew. "Monty always keeps his word."

As a matter of fact, Montgomery was also keeping his word in a little promise he made himself long before. When he was a small boy he saw troops going off to the Boer war and is supposed to have remarked:

"When I grow up I'm going to be a soldier and I'll have an army of my own."

His early environment was far from being military. His father was a clergyman and Montgomery and his two brothers and two sisters were brought up in a vicarage. Later he went to St. Paul's boarding school from where he sent frequent notes to an aunt recording his progress in his studies and particularly in sports.

CHANCES LOOKED BLEAK

Then he went to Tasmania where his father was bishop and spent 10 years there, returning to England to enter Sandhurst in preparation for a military career. He was a rugger and hockey star at Sandhurst and the records there list him as "an exceedingly hard-working young officer, not much given to social activities."

It was a long time before he had any prospects of an army of his own and things looked especially bleak for him when the German armored divisions—directed by Rommel—pinned Montgomery's outfit back against the beach at Dunkirk during the battle of France.

Montgomery, like his present superior, Gen. Sir Harold Alexander, was taken off the Dunkirk beach at the last minute. And again Monty made a promise. He promised himself that one day he would beat Rommel at his own game—tank warfare. He began an intensive study of the Nazi equipment and methods and especially of tank warfare. His chance finally came at El Alamein and he made certain when he struck that Rommel did not have enough to stop him.

CHEWED UP AFRICA CORPS

True, Montgomery was never able to trap the Nazi desert fox on that long retreat across Egypt and Libya and into Tunisia. But he chewed up the famed Africa Corps at every stop and by the time Rommel reached Tunisia he was a far different factor in the Mediterranean war than on the day he paused at El Alamein in his drive toward the valley of the Nile.

I have met all kinds of generals in this war, in Flanders, in Belgium, in Albania and Greece. But foxy-faced Monty of El Alamein is the most successful and probably the greatest of them all.

Prime Minister Winston Churchill, who sent Montgomery to command the Eighth Army, probably pictures him most accurately with these words:

"He is vehement, formidable general, a grim, slim figure of Cromwellian austerity, whose life has been given to the study of war, who has attracted to himself in extraordinary measure the confidence and devotion of his army."

SOLDIER'S TRIBUTE

That was Churchill's way of praising Monty of El Alamein. But it was no more sincere than the remark of a begrimed little British soldier I saw sitting by the roadside near the yellow Mosque at Sidi El Rahman.

The little Tommy watched Montgomery, riding over the desert trail in pursuit of Rommel, pass by in a flury of dust and sand. When the general's car had whirled past and the dust had settled, the soldier looked after him and remarked:

"Cocky little blighter, isn't he? But, blimey, we'd follow 'im anywhere."

Mine Strike At Drumheller Now Settled

DRUMHELLER, Alta., April 28.—(CP)—The 11-day strike of 2,015 miners in 17 domestic mines here ended suddenly last night when it was announced the men would return to work Thursday morning.

The announcement came after a meeting of officials of District 18 of the United Mine Workers of America, the strike committee and representatives of the 17 local unions.

It was announced after the meeting Mike Bokos, who was refused work in one of the mines after a strike in February, had accepted a job offered by the Red Deer Valley Coal Company at nearby Nacmine. This refusal to re-employ Bokos precipitated the strike.

This, officials said, removed the cause of the strike. Bokos attended the meeting and gave his acceptance there.

Last week when it was arranged by F. E. Harrison, Vancouver, representative of the federal department of labor, that Bokos be given employment at another mine, the strike committee ruled he should be given back his original job in Drumheller.

The end of the strike came suddenly. Earlier in the day officials had reported the situation was unchanged.

Liberal M. L. A. To Contest Seat In Federal House

REGINA, April 28.—(CP)—Frank S. Krenn, Liberal member of the Saskatchewan legislative assembly for the constituency of Watrous will seek the nomination as candidate to contest the by-election in the federal constituency of Humboldt. The Bruno and District Liberal Association has announced that Mr. Krenn has agreed to allow his name to go before the coming Liberal convention to select a candidate.

The federal seat became vacant last year through the death of Dr. H. E. Fleming.

Victory Loan Hour

EDWARD ARNOLD

MARGARET SPEAKS

Edward Arnold, one of Hollywood's busiest actors, is coming to Canada to help in the Fourth Victory Loan Drive. Co-starring with Mr. Arnold are Margaret Speaks, brilliant young lyric soprano, who has won universal acclaim, and John Cebastian, "the wizard" of the harmonica. These eminent stars are donating their time and talents to take part in the Victory Loan Hour, to be broadcast from Montreal over a coast-to-coast network, Wednesday, April 28, from 7 to 8 p.m., M.D.T.

Edward Arnold, known as the "man of many friends," became a Broadway celebrity first, and then went to Hollywood in 1932. Recent pictures of his include "Eyes in the Night," "Mr. Smith Goes to Washington," and "The War Against Mrs. Hadley." In addition to his movie work, Mr. Arnold functions as a leader of U.S.O. activities, an executive of the Screen Actors' Guild, and a member of the boards of 15 philanthropic and welfare groups in all.

Year after year, in both local and national polls, Margaret Speaks has been elected as the most popular woman singer in the classical field. Miss Speaks, who has enchanted millions on the "Voice of Firestone," has been honored with command performances large and small. In addition to her regular performances on the air, Margaret Speaks has sung in concert, the country over, with many symphonies, including Canada.

John Sebastian has won acclaim on the stage and radio throughout the continent. Mr. Sebastian's genius lifts the harmonica from a child's toy to a top-ranking musical instrument. He achieves musical effects that are almost unbelievable. Supporting these great stars, who are contributing their services for the broadcast which originates in the Sun Life Building Auditorium, Montreal, is the orchestra and choir under the direction of Alan McIvor. You may hear this streamlined top-notch entertainment on Wednesday evening over CJCA and the CBC national network from 7 to 8, M.D.T.

Montreal, subscribed $750,000, and Montreal Light, Heat and Power Consolidated, $2,500,000.

"Overnight reports changed the standings of leading cities in percentage of total objective subscriptions."

Standing of the first 10 cities follows:

Hull, 24.18 per cent of its objective; Saint John 22.8 per cent; Sydney 19.22 per cent; Red Deer 18.22 per cent; Belleville, Ont., 16 per cent; Moose Jaw, Sask., 15.10 per cent; Lethbridge, Alta., 14.03 per cent; Owen Sound, Ont., 14 per cent; Calgary 12.23 per cent; Medicine Hat 10.86 per cent.

In British Columbia cities, the percentages relating only to the general canvass and payroll savings are: Vancouver, 6.05; Victoria, 4.25.

"A steadily rising volume of bond-buying on the part of the armed services and employee groups continued to be a feature of the campaign," said loan headquarters.

PASS QUOTA

Calgary and Bighorn Breweries at Calgary began a plant canvass at the start of the day shift yesterday and two hours later employees in the plant had subscribed, for total bond sales of $10,550, or 115 per cent of quota, loan headquarters said.

Manitoba subscribed $4,597,700 on the first day of the loan campaign.

Salesmen in the Claresholm unit in Alberta began their rural canvass yesterday over roads covered with a foot of snow. The unit at Pincher Creek, Alta., expected to pass its quota today.

The Edmonton unit reported that a mother of three children applied for temporary work at a laundry to finance the purchase of a victory bond she could not otherwise afford to buy.

SLOWEST "FLIGHT"

PO. John Higham, D.F.C., who took part in a 1,000-plane raid over Saarbrucken and brought his crew back to Canada 24 hours afterwards, had his slowest "flight" in Vancouver. His "plane"—minus wings—was hauled through town on an air force trailer in a Victory Loan cavalcade.

In Victoria an 80-year-old man with a $20 a month pension from the Esquimalt and Nanaimo railway, brought $300 in small bills to Victory Loan headquarters and bought bonds for that amount. Fifty-one loan salesmen in South Vancouver, B.C., started the day by each subscribing to a bond.

R.C.A.F. Orders Six Helicopters In United States

OTTAWA, April 28.—(CP)—The R.C.A.F. has ordered six helicopters from the United States, air force headquarters announced last night. The air force said in a press release there would be an immediate use for these flying machines, which can land anywhere and take off anywhere, in rescuing airmen forced down in otherwise inaccessible areas and in serving outposts now dependent on irregular sea communications.

Britain is contemplating use of helicopters with convoys to combat the submarine menace and air force headquarters said if the R.A.F. experience proved valuable, the R.C.A.F. might use them in its campaign against U-boats off Canada's east coast.

Cotton, according to scientists, is being planted and picked somewhere in the world every day of the year.

Victoria Cross Awarded Flier On Fatal Raid

LONDON, April 28.—The Victoria Cross has been awarded posthumously to Wing Cmdr. Hugh Gordon Malcolm, 25-year-old Scotsman, for daring exploits as commander of a British light bomber squadron in North Africa, it was announced today.

Malcolm lost his life when his whole squadron was shot down on a suicide mission without fighter escort during an attack on an airfield near Cheuigui last Dec. 12 while supporting the British 1st Army.

Malcolm who had repeatedly led intrepid attacks on six airfields in Tunisia in the teeth of tremendous opposition, undertook to raid the airfield without fighter escort which could not be arranged in time.

COURTING DISASTER

He knew he was courting disaster. He reached the target unmolested but after a successful attack his squadron was intercepted by an overwhelming force of enemy fighters.

Malcolm fought back, controlling hard-pressed squadron and attempting to maintain formation. One by one his aircraft were shot down until only his remained, and in the end he too went down in flames.

The citation which recorded other outstanding achievements said his last exploit was "the finest example of the valor and unswerving devotion to duty which he constantly displayed."

Malcolm's home was in Sussex.

Long Pacific War Seen If Japanese Consolidate Gains

MONTREAL, April 28.—(CP)—If permitted to consolidate her territorial gains Japan will "become, potentially, the strongest power in the world," Joseph C. Grew, former United States ambassador to Tokyo said yesterday in an interview here.

"They will be very difficult to defeat if we give them time to consolidate their gains," said Mr. Grew, who came to Montreal to address a victory loan luncheon. "But they are not just thinking of a short war, or even of a few years' war. They think of a hundred years' war if necessary."

B.C. Indian Couple Charged in Murder

WILLIAMS LAKE, B.C., April 28.—(CP)—Mr. and Mrs. Michel Maurice Sellars, Indians of the Sugarcane reserve at Williams Lake, were in custody here last night, held on murder charges in connection with the death of Joseph Michaud, 54, of Wells, B.C.

Mr. and Mrs. Sellars were arrested after an investigation which followed the finding of part of Michaud's body buried in a shallow hole in the bush about a mile from Wells. The head of Michaud's body was missing.

The Indian couple were formally charged before Magistrate J. Holl and were remanded until April 30 pending conclusion of a coroner's jury inquest into Michaud's death.

Sergeant R. G. Baker, in charge of the Cariboo detachment of the British Columbia provincial police, found Michaud's body. Michaud disappeared April 10. Police investigated April 22 and found his two-room cabin spattered with blood.

Jap Expansion In Pacific Area Said Checked

NEW YORK, April 28.—(AP)—Admiral Ernest J. King, commander-in-chief of the United States fleet, declared last night that the expansion of Japanese forces in the Pacific has been checked.

"In December of 1941," King told a dinner meeting of the United States Chamber of Commerce, "we were apprehensive—both the military and the civilian population—whether the Western Hemisphere would be invaded. We don't worry about that now. The expansion of the Japanese has been checked."

King expressed belief that the submarine menace in the Atlantic should be under control within the next four to six months.

CAN 'STAND' LOSSES

Within that time, he said, American shipping losses would have been reduced to such an extent that "we can stand them and still expand the war effort overseas."

"If we can reduce them so that the spread between sinkings and construction of merchant ships continues on the upgrade, we can say that we have them under control," he declared.

He added that the Japanese are having trouble with United States submarines in the Pacific and that there was "plenty of evidence that the Japanese are badly pinched for ships."

WAR WORK OF THE 60'S

BRISTOL, England.—(CP)—Ernest Bevin, minister of labor, told an audience here that Britain's man-power was the best organized in the world. Nearly 750,000 men and women between 60 and 65 years of age were doing work of national importance.

American Woman's Trek to Alaska Again Hits Snag

BELLINGHAM, Wash., April 28. —AP)—A heap of trouble has crossed the path of Mrs. Miriam Mathers, of Wapato, Wash., whose trek to Alaska in a covered wagon was interrupted in this county several days ago when one of her goats gave birth to three kids. Latest word from Mrs. Mathers' camp near Deming was that her two horses and colt got tangled while staked out. The colt strangled and the horses were injured, thus causing another delay.

WOMEN OF BRITAIN REVEAL HOW THEY "KEEP 'EM FLYING"

Survey Shows Women Take Aspirin for Headache Relief

Women "home fighters," now working by millions in war plants, are not letting anything interfere with their work... not even a headache . . . according to a recent British government survey.

This questionnaire issued to women revealed that they consider Aspirin one of the three most helpful drug items, for maintaining health.

Naturally, Aspirin has become a household "watchword." For generations, it has proved itself dependable, quick . . . easing literally millions of headaches, neuritis, and neuralgia pain, without unpleasant after-effects. In fact, Aspirin is rated as one of the safest analgesics known. It costs less than 1¢ a tablet, in the economy bottle. Keep it handy, yourself.

"Aspirin," made in Canada, is the trademark of The Bayer Company, Limited. If you don't see the Bayer cross on each tablet, it isn't Aspirin.

ATTACK! With the Firepower in Your Purse!

THERE'S firepower in your purse . . . and it's needed at the battlefront. Send it into the attack—now—by buying Victory Bonds!

You've already bought some? Yes, and so have millions of other loyal Canadians.

But all of us must buy more. The cost of war is growing, for we are no longer fighting a defensive war.

We're On The Offensive Now*—with everything we've got.

We must carry the war to the enemy—over him, through him—until certain and complete Victory has been won for the United Nations.

You are asked to increase your purchases of Victory Bonds, in support of the Fourth Victory Loan campaign. What if it does mean doing without something? Do Canada's men at the fighting fronts put a price on their sacrifices? No, for they know there is one thing we must not do without . . . Victory!

So loose the firepower in your purse . . . put more dollars into the fight for Canada's fighting men.

Back the attack with Victory Bonds!

When Summer Comes

It could not have been the weather that prompted the city council to discuss the question of summer uniforms for the policemen at the meeting Monday evening. No doubt this came up just as a routine item on the April calendar. The commissioners proposed to let the "bobbies" get along as best they could if and when hot weather comes, postponing the summer uniform question until after the war. The aldermen thought otherwise, but left the subject for future consideration.

Assuming that we are going to have summer after a while, provision should of course be made in advance to have the policemen suitably clothed. In a good many other cities the problem is solved by providing the men on the beat with shirt-waists, light trousers and airy headgear. The outfit does not cost much, and there is no indication that law enforcement suffers because the officers go about dressed comfortably yet distinctively. Perhaps the summer uniform problem in Edmonton could be dealt with in the same convenient and inexpensive way.

Meatless Menus

Meatless Tuesdays are to be instituted in public eating places, commencing next week. That will crimp for one day in the week the plans of the ingenious chap who counted on eking out the family meat ration by taking his lunch down town. The broad purpose of course is to spread rationing over all classes, by curtailing the consumption of those who eat regularly at hotels or restaurants and would not be affected by the two-pounds-per-week limit on buying at the meat shops. The meatless day is evidently adopted because more convenient and more enforcible than a ruling that only so much could be served to a patron at a meal.

In this part of the country the arrangement would be less bothersome if started a few weeks later. Vegetables from which to compound salads are scarce, and these are very acceptable substitutes for meat. Conditions do not however accommodate themselves to wishes or tastes. The scarcity is here, and the object is to deal with it is to eat less meat per person until the supply expands to cover the increased demand at home and abroad. When that may occur there has been no official guess. Meatless days and meals may be coming "for the duration"—even to the part of Canada that was famous for cattle before it became famous for wheat.

V

Self-Security

It is expected that 3,000,000 Canadians will buy Fourth Victory Loan bonds. There were 2,041,000 purchasers of the Third Loan bonds. The amount now asked for is $350,000,000 larger. Of course the majority of those who bought before will buy again. But there should be also a multitude of first-time buyers, and these may be necessary to assure the sum being raised. Whether necessary for that purpose or not, the ranks of the buyers should be swelled by great numbers who have never bought bonds before.

Everybody is thinking now about post-war days, and wondering how the restoration to peacetime conditions can be brought about without going through the horrors of another depression. There will be less cause for worry on that score in proportion as people in wartime take the opportunity to lay aside, each for himself, some of his present earnings in the safest of all investments—Victory bonds. Why leave one's personal future altogether to government security and bonds, and at the mercy of political uncertainties?

Those who buy bonds will have this added protection, over and above whatever security parliament may be able to provide through a social security program. If 3,000,000 buy the bonds, the chance of carrying through such a program successfully will be very much improved. The more civilians who thus safeguard their own future, the easier it will be to re-establish the men of our fighting forces in civilian life when they are demobilized.

V

Russia and Poland

When the Nazi forces invaded Poland in 1939 they met the Red army half way across the country. That was the immediate clash, for which Hitler was not then ready. Poland was chopped in two and each invader took half. When the Fuehrer attacked Russia in 1941, the Russians and Poles found themselves in the same boat, and made common cause against the mutual enemy. Moscow entered into a truce with the Polish Government in exile, and Polish soldiers taken prisoner during the 1939 invasion were liberated to fight with the Russian forces. Later a hundred thousand of these were transferred to the Levant, where they joined the British Army of the East or the Army of the Nile. The Polish President gave out a statement also saying that Moscow had lived up to the letter of its agreement.

That is the background of the curious situation which has ended in the suspension of relations between the Soviets and the Polish authorities in London. The immediate cause of the rupture is a dispute as to whether it was the Russians or the Nazis who killed ten thousand Polish officers at the time of their simultaneous invasion of the country. But the collaboration between the Russians and Poles was purely artificial. The territorial question had not been settled, and it created a cleavage which the truce of convenience could not close. The Poles wanted their country restored to them as it was in mid-summer of 1939, and were by no means sure the Russians meant to give back the half they had occupied. At best the relationship was one of co-operation without confidence. Each knew, and so did the world, that some time the territorial issue would have to be faced, and Russia gave no commitment that it would be settled to the satisfaction of the Poles.

The breaking of relations is a blow to the Allies and a gain to the Axis. But both the disputants know that, and knowing it they also know neither can afford to play into Hitler's hand by carrying the quarrel to the point of sacrificing the support of the other Allies. It may therefore be hoped that they will compromise their dispute, at least to the extent of agreeing to disagree on the root cause of the cleavage until the common enemy has been destroyed.

At Prince Albert a little girl of ten and her brother of thirteen staggered the Victory Loan officials by lugging in four tobacco tins out of which they dumped $100 all in cent pieces, to pay for a bond. They got the bond, of course, and, it is to be hoped, a good round of applause. If that in any way reflects public sentiment, there need be no doubt about the success of the Loan.

Berlin radio announced the other day that Herr Hitler had conferred the order of the oak leaves on a submarine commander for having sunk the U.S. airplane carrier Ranger in mid-Atlantic. Washington, however, spoiled the story by announcing that neither the Ranger nor any other U.S. warship had been sunk in the Atlantic or any other ocean. The Berlin broadcaster has apparently selected the Ranger as the successor to the Ark Royal.

Christian Education

Editor Bulletin: As a British born subject now living on borrowed time I can sincerely add my testimony to the value of daily Bible reading in school; also the memorizing of only one verse daily and consider it to be vitally important in comparison to all other subjects taught, yet is treated with a serious indifference and neglect.

The young especially look to their elders for guidance and example to show them the way, the dangers and pitfalls in life's path. Time is short and uncertain to walk before the final accounting.

The real cause of world wars is the results of the barrenness of the Christian lives as lived by the governing classes of the nations concerned and lack of Christian discipline or the indifference of it by governments.

We use the Bible in the taking of an oath. Surely we should teach it to our youth. Righteousness exalteth a nation but sin is a reproach to any people.

For Women Only

Editor Bulletin: The Canadian Senate costs the people of Canada about $500,000.00 a year. It is really nothing more than an addition of about a hundred members of the House of Commons and represents only the two major political parties.

Women form about one half of the population. There are only two women in the Senate and two women in the House of Commons. The nine provincial legislatures, hundreds of municipal councils and school boards have relatively few or scarcely any women members on them. Women administer the finances of the home, perform most of the clerical work of the country, work in industries and in farming, operate mercantile establishments, carry on manufacturing, practice law and medicine, act as clergymen, school teachers and nurses, and participate in all businesses. Every job they do is done well. There is only one activity in which men excel women—that is the commission of crimes and offences—about ten to one.

The Senate should be reserved for women instead of the members being lined up into government and opposition groups facing each other they should all sit in one group facing the speaker without any regard to politics. To accomplish this there need be no amendment to the B.N. act. Each succeeding government by appointing only women to vacancies in the Senate would bring about the above change.

Some time ago the courts determined that a woman was a person and was therefore eligible to be appointed to the Senate.

Extremists

Editor, Bulletin: The temperance forces are perfectly right when they say excessive drinking of alcohol is detrimental to the war effort. We all know that it does no good and we all know that, taken in moderation, it does no harm. The only fault I find with these "reformers" is that they are extremists and never strike at causes.

The weaving of elephants, windsucking of horses, crime for financial gain, alcoholism and the greatest of all crimes, this whole-sale legalized murder and destruction, war, are the inevitable results of human interference with the will of God. God created all life and with life an irresistible desire for individual freedom. Any tampering with this desire results in chaos and death. But these extremists have the insane idea they can remedy the defects in God's handiwork (they think they could have done a better job) by controlling human actions. In this case by restricting the use of alcohol.

The police, fines, jails, reformatories, asylums, all these man-made penalties cannot put an end to crime or drunkenness. Turn the elephant back into the jungle, the horse back into the open fields, give human individuals the freedom God insists they have, and the problem is solved. Then, "they shall sit every man under his (not the extremists') vine and under his fig tree, and none shall make him afraid." Christ also suffered from this tyranny. He drank wine at the Last Supper. These extremists would not have stood for that.

Protest and Plea

Editor, Bulletin: A protest that the site that is being used for electricity is a dumping ground for rubbish, refuse and broken glass.

A plea that the site be reserved for a city park, an ideal spot in the opinion of countless people who have given a moment's thought to the need of a park and are struck by the latent beauty along the river bank.

If an order were obtained to stop dumping, bands of willing citizens could soon convert this waste land into a park with flowers and shrubs that would be the pride of Edmonton.

War Plants

Editor, Bulletin: That feature article in The Bulletin of April 14 ("Write-Offs on War Plants") interested this rural reader in old Ontario, because of its link with farm revenues and admitted the fact that our primary producers are literally smothered in debt and despite their immense productivity and "dawn to dusk" energies, seem to remain that way.

As your writer (B. T. Richardson) indicates, "the principle of writing off capital is not new" to organized urban industry. On the other hand, I suggest that the farmer would be wise to learn and apply this very business-like technique of his urban brethren. In the apt paragraph dealing with this matter, the following sentiments are credited to that fine Canadian executive, Hon. C. D. Howe, Canada's munitions minister: "If a man puts up a building that will last for years, he should set aside in some safe place a proportion of the money earned by that building each year, so that at the end of its useful life he will have enough money to replace it. It is the same with a factory with machinery, a power plant, a telephone system, and with any productive facilities. Heavy machinery frequently is expected to last 10 years, and its cost is recovered on that basis. This is the way a nation is able to replace continually its productive capacity, from generation to generation."

I would like to bring the above constructive principle to the notice of our prairie farmers, for I have often wondered to what extent the $1,650,000,000 invested in "farm machinery" since 1903 (and, according to Prof. G. E. Britnell "Wheat Economy," a still heavier capital investment on farm buildings) on the Canadian Prairies has been recovered from commodities sold by those primary producers?

It seems to me that this principle of "depreciation charges" has been sadly neglected down on the farm? The fact goes far to explain why the average farmer finds the going hard, as he does a continuous "treadmill" existence of sheriff, despite his productivity from generation to generation.

"JOHN BULL."

Ammunition

Editor, Bulletin: It is unfortunate that Mr. W. C. Fisher of the Alberta Fish and Game Association can see nothing in the ban regarding the manufacture of ammunition for sporting purposes, which he vigorously protests through the medium of the press, other than what amounts to the denial of hunting for pleasure for the duration.

Mr. Fisher is apparently unimpressed with the thought, as most sportsmen are, that the ban will give many species of wildlife close to the borderline of exhaustion a chance to make a comeback, for the many species of wildlife once recovery to normal population values of any form of life subject to exploitation is to refrain from unnecessarily reducing its numbers until such time as recovery is evident.

With killing for pleasure more or less denied, the ducks of yesteryear may again darken the sky, and the large sums of money annually expended by a certain high pressure organization, with much ballyhoo among the sporting sportsmen and sporting interests, diverted to the purchase of War Bonds and the like. Shagreilled and other belated grouse, once plentiful in the west, may again come into their own after a lapse of years. Indeed Wartime Prices and Trade Board Order No 251 is a blessing in disguise—for wildlife.

The present situation in certain Alberta districts—a thin excuse for the removal or modification of the ban—should give Mr. Fisher and his associates no concern, for Wartime Prices and Trade Board Order No. 251 provides for the sale of ammunition to farmers and others to be used for the control of pests, and without doubt they will be given the necessary authority to reduce the numbers of this exotic bird, running true to form in the Pheasant family, to increase as predicted by those who know the score, should crop damage threaten, something they have always been able to accomplish to good advantage without the assistance of the sporting fraternity.

With reference to Mr. Fisher's suggestion regarding the utilization of wild meat to supplement rationing, a recent editorial in the Worcester (Mass., U.S.A.) Evening Gazette provides a fitting answer. The editorial reads, in part, as follows:

"We have not yet reached the point where it is necessary to slaughter the nation's wildlife to provide food, and we shall have to be in far worse shape than at present before it does become necessary. If something like that should be needed however, the taking of necessary wildlife ought to be done systematically by the most efficient and surest means, not as a come-one-come-all field day for the nation's gunner sportsmen. When that day comes, if it does, it will be no time for sport."

War Has Changed Bermuda

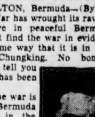

Horse-and-Buggy Resort Becomes Vital Military Base

Mr. Clapper stopped over in Bermuda on his way to Sweden. His first dispatches from Stockholm are expected shortly.—Editor.

BY RAYMOND CLAPPER

HAMILTON, Bermuda.—(By Air Mail)—War has wrought its ravages even here in peaceful Bermuda. You don't find the war in evidence in the same way that it is in London, or Chungking. No bombed buildings tell you that war has been here.

What the war is doing to Bermuda is noted in the colonial assembly now in session, debating the belated automobile which is thrusting its ugly nose into the isolated serenity of this small island. Just now the assembly has voted an annual license fee of 10 pounds a year, which is $80. It was a bitter fight, as a large minority was against allowing automobiles in at all under any conditions.

Raymond Clapper

Only recently has Bermuda permitted automobiles to come in for physicians previously a sidesaddle summoned on an emergency call, had to mount his bicycle or get into his horse-drawn buggy and make it as fast as he could.

The American army and navy have forced the change, and from the comment of some that I have heard here in their franker moments I suspect it was high time the change was made. The army and navy have brought in the station wagon, which is used around here much as it is in the suburbs in the United States.

The idea that Bermuda is so small that you don't need automobiles is not correct. We were 45 minutes going by car from our hotel to the army base—although part of the time was consumed for by the fact that there is a low speed limit and the roads are winding and just wide enough for two vehicles to pass.

Distances are those of a good-sized city, and to depend on a bicycle here would be like depending on one to get from Chevy Chase to the Pentagon building in Washington. During the leisure days before the war, people thought nothing of pedalling five or ten miles into town to shop. This was a place where people dressed for dinner; a great deal. A husband and wife would pack their dinner clothes in their bicycle baskets, dress in old sport clothes, pedal to their hosts' home and change there for dinner, and then change back again before starting home.

To save a British commodore, leaving a cocktail party, wrap his trouser legs with rubber bands and get on a bicycle to pump his way back to his quarters. William Beck, the American consul general here, came down the street the day I arrived here. Pedalling in the rain, wearing his hip-length leggings which he wears while on his bicycle. This means of transportation, supplemented by carriages and hacks, was adequate when Bermuda was entirely a vacation resort, where time meant nothing.

Now, however, Bermuda is a very busy place indeed. It is full of American army and navy personnel and is becoming one of the major fortresses of the Atlantic.

The amount of work done here on these bases in the last two years will astound the people back home when they are able to be told about it. Excellent co-operation between the United States and Great Britain, between the people here, and the sanity of command under an American admiral are marks of a new energetic activity.

Bermuda is, as you can see from a map, the central island point of the United States eastern seaboard. It is within five or six hundred miles of the entire eastern coastline, and thus in enemy hands would be a most dangerous bombing base against the most vital area in the United States.

This horse-and-buggy resort island, which once lived only as a pleasure resort, has now, in the space of two years, changed into an important military bulwark of the northern hemisphere. The open-faced hats give way to the army type. The carriage "es way to the way station wagon, the cart to the big motor truck. The automobile, under military necessity has forced its way into this last refuge from the machine world and has geared up the pace so that the civilian population here, in self-defence, is now turning reluctantly to the automobile as a necessary evil.

Never again will Bermuda be the same kind of a backwater. It was once was for the rich of America. The magnificent cottage of Vincent Astor is now in a warlike setting. The Atlantic playground may again be a playground after the war, but never again will it be only that.

Faster Cargo Ships Needed

Speeding of Convoys Is Best Way to Beat U-Boats

By B. T. RICHARDSON

OTTAWA.—Few newspaper writers in Canada write with greater knowledge and understanding of seafaring life than does Charles A. Bowman, editor of Ottawa Citizen. More attention should be paid to a proposal made by his newspaper recently on the subject of faster cargo ships to overcome the U-boat menace.

"It is generally admitted," said the Citizen, "that cargo ships should be faster. Technical difficulties arise when higher speed is introduced, but the main difficulty is in the attitude of conservative authorities. They continue to think of the cargo ship in commercial terms. It used to be considered unprofitable to build faster ships under competitive conditions before the war; cheapness is still a governing consideration.

"There are, of course, technical difficulties in constructing faster ships. An ordinary cargo ship, it is learned, might carry a machinery engine and two or three thousand horsepower. Such an Engine would propel such a ship at a rate of 10 knots an hour, perhaps a little more. This is the peacetime standard, for economical operation of tramp steamers around the seven seas.

The chief characteristic of the Atlantic convoy is lack of speed. Canadian sailors regard the convoy job much in the same class of work as driving a team of oxen from Montreal to Vancouver.

On the question whether the slow pace of cargo vessels should be speeded up, the Citizen notes that the same compelling reasons for speed exist in regard to aircraft or tanks or motor vehicles. "It is no more reasonable," the newspaper remarked, "to limit the speed of cargo ships for war service to 10 knots or even 12 knots than it would be to build bombers so that the pilot could be cheaply operated after the war in commercial enterprise."

New U-boats, the Ottawa paper reminded us, are literally in the destroyer class. On the surface they are faster than corvettes. Under water they can make better speed than the slow convoys."

It is recalled in Ottawa that the original Canadian corvette construction program has been entirely changed in order to obtain speedier escort ships. The old slow corvette has been replaced by the faster frigate-type escort vessel.

There are two main reasons for faster merchant shipping during the war. One is that the faster ship has a better chance of escaping from a submarine attack. The other is that ships capable of making twice the number of round trips between Canada and Britain, or between any source of munitions and supplies to any destination, will greatly contribute to shortening the war.

Canada's contribution in merchant ships and in naval ships is the first vital factor in the current Battle of the Atlantic, of which the news mounts steadily. Since the first 10,000-ton (deadweight) cargo ship was delivered in December, 1941, Canada has delivered more than 100 ships to carry supplies overseas. At the present time, according to latest figures, there are 157 ships of 10,000-ton capacity and 13 ships of 4,700-ton capacity under construction in Canadian shipyards. Fifty ships are being put into convoy service at the rate of eight or ten each month, and 100 ships have been maintained ever since June, 1942.

One 10,000-tonner was converted into an oil tanker, and four more ships of the same size are being converted. In addition, there are three 3,700-ton oil tankers under construction in this country. Private shipping companies have also converted eight or more ships to oil tankers.

Shipbuilding contracts under way in Canada at the present time exceed $1,000,000,000. This is one of the leading war costs assumed by the nation, and compares with the entire cost for one year of the Canadian Army, for which the estimate given in the budget was $1,078,000,000 for 1942-43. It compares with the cost for one year of the Royal Canadian Air Force, which was given in the budget as $826,960,000, figure increased recently by $341,000,000, the cost of R.C.A.F. personnel overseas and in R.C.A.F. squadrons and in the R.A.F. which Canada has assumed.

Canada is obviously an important factor in the war being fought with sea power, in war production, as Prime Minister King recently pointed out, and Britain, or between any source of munitions and supplies to any destination, will greatly contribute to shortening the war.

Strange as It May Seem

By LEO S. DISHER
BRITISH UNITED PRESS STAFF CORRESPONDENT

This is a war of superlatives. It is the greatest, costliest, sternest, most widespread, most mechanized, most mobilized and wackiest.

Ask the Scot who was hit by a 500-pound bomb and didn't know it, or the British seaman who was washed overside by one wave and washed back aboard by another while holding the potato he was peeling.

Or ask the crew of the ship that collided with an automobile or the crew of a bomber prisoner by the Italians although their plane never landed.

Or question the man who was tubbing during a London blitz when a nearby bomb concussion blew all the water from his tub and left him unharmed.

Or talk to the crew of a Canadian plane that came back from a raid with part of a telegraph pole in its wing tip, or the men of another that brought back part of a radio wireless.

They all have authenticated case histories.

One of the war's wackiest stories is that of the corvette Nasturtium which bumped into a merchant ship off St. John's, Newfoundland. The impact pushed the merchant ship onto the land where it collided with an automobile.

A freak tale is that of the British bomber that caught fire over Italy during a raid. Its crew bailed out to be taken prisoner, and then the fire was extinguished and the pilot brought the plane back to British safety.

R.A.F. ferry man Harry Grit fith fell out of a bomber while it was in flight. He managed to cling to the hatch-edge until the pilot brought it low enough for him to drop unharmed into a snow-drift.

A Coastal Command plane spun down out of control over Scotland and crashed on a mountaintop. Two members of its crew had bailed out. One was killed and the other injured critically. Two others, who had stayed with the plane, walked away from the wreck unhurt.

A lookout in the crew's nest of H.M.S. Cowdray was catapulted from his position in a collision. He landed on the deck of the colliding ship without climbing down.

And the Royal Navy's marvels at H.M.S. Amazon, one of its most modern destroyers. She broke down in the Atlantic but her crew rigged her up and she entered Liverpool harbor under full sail.

That wasn't wacky.

Matches

POST OFFICE BULLETIN

Once again the utter disregard for the safety of others has resulted in the mailing of a large box of matches, which burst into flames in the process of handling.

Despite the earnest radio appeal recently to the commonsense of persons not to mail matches, by Postmaster General Mulock, and the repeated warnings of the press against this unlawful and dangerous practice, already has resulted in the loss or damage of mails sent the forces, one citizen's thoughtlessness has been responsible for another accident.

The flimsy parcel was mailed at a point outside of Halifax. When being sorted at the Halifax post office by a clerk for the Canadian Postal Corps it flared into a blaze while in his hands—fortunately the fire was smothered before injury to the soldier or damage to other mails.

The parcel consisted of a large cardboard box of matches simply wrapped in a single sheet of light paper and addressed to a soldier at a camp in Canada. The match box was without packing or protection of any kind.

TODAY'S MARKETS

Toronto Stocks

TORONTO, April 28—(CP)—The base metal stocks held up and other groups sagged today on the Toronto Stock Exchange. The action was the dullest in several months and turnover totalled only about 125,000 shares. The Victory Bond sale was credited with stiffening interest in the stock market for the present.

Winnipeg Wheat Futures Advance

WINNIPEG, April 28—(CP)—Only a small volume of wheat changed hands on Winnipeg grain exchange today but all futures registered substantial gains. The May position closed 1⅜ cents higher at 99⅛ cents a bushel, the July 1⅜ cents higher at 99⅞ and the October 1½ cents higher at 1.00¼-⅜.

Offerings were light and were well absorbed by mills and shippers.

Export sales in Canadian wheat to the United Kingdom totalled more than 500,000 bushels while an additional 100,000 bushels sold to Eire. Canadian flour, equivalent to approximately 200,000 bushels also sold on the export market.

More than 500,000 bushels of wheat sold in the cash market, including a cargo of No. 1 northern and one of No. 2 northern for shipment to the United States. Cash coarse grain dealings were at a minimum.

Strong demand for all rye futures sent prices to new seasonal highs. Minor trades were reported in oats and barley at ceiling levels.

Grain inspections at Winnipeg yesterday totalled 179 cars compared with 919 last year. Country marketings amounted to 477,000 bushels against 238,000 a year ago.

TCA President Urges Workers To Buy Bonds

MONTREAL, April 28—H. J. Symington, K.C., president of Trans-Canada Air Lines, has forwarded a personal message to every member of the organization in Canada inviting support for the Fourth Victory Loan, which was initiated Monday. In his appeal, Mr. Symington states: "It is the desire of the management of Trans-Canada Air Lines that each and every member of the organization subscribe to the loan, doing this to the maximum of his or her resources."

Mr. Symington's message continued: "In order that the objective set for TCA in common with all other large industrial organizations and accepted by the management, be reached, it will require every man and woman employed in all departments to subscribe for bonds in the Fourth Victory Loan to a minimum amount of 10 per cent. of their earnings, during this six months period, existing war savings certificates pledges making up the balance.

MUCH AT STAKE

"Under this arrangement, the men and women of Trans-Canada Air Lines are being asked to finance our nation's fighting cost for just 13 minutes. Looking at it this way, it's not too much to expect with such grave issues at stake."

During previous Victory Loan campaigns, Trans-Canada Air Lines staff subscribed liberally and it is anticipated that the response of the personnel for this loan will be on an even greater scale. Arrangements have been made for a personal canvass of every individual employee no matter where situated in the Dominion. Bond salesmen have been selected and carefully coached in their tasks and swung into action promptly on Monday morning.

W. K. Whiteford New President Of B.A. Oil Co.

TORONTO, April 28—(CP)—W. K. Whiteford, director, was elected president of British American Oil Company, Limited, at a meeting of the re-elected board of directors following the annual meeting here yesterday. He succeeds A. L. Ellsworth who was chosen chairman of board of directors.

Mr. Whiteford told shareholders at the annual meeting production from Turner Valley field continued to decline during 1942 and the company had to increase its importation of United States crude oil. During the year it imported 600,000 barrels of oil from Montana for its Moose Jaw, Sask., refinery and in 1943 it will have to increase this amount to over a million barrels.

NEW DEVELOPMENT

The Dominion government, he continued, has recognized necessity of developing further the Turner Valley field. A government corporation, War Times Oil Limited, has been organized and will drill a number of wells on the west flank. No private owner will participate in production until costs have been returned to War Times Oil. Then the wells will be returned to the private owners. Drilling of these wells should slow the decline in Turner Valley.

The company had maintained its daily average of crude oil production and through recent discovery in Wyoming, added materially to the company's proven reserves.

Mr. Whiteford said establishment of geological and engineering office in Calgary showed the company's appreciation of aiding in development.

TO SPEND MILLIONS

Increased military demands for petroleum products in the North West Territories, in addition to the normal western farm consumption, had brought about a need for additional oil fields in this area. Many companies would spend several millions of dollars during the next few years to discover production and reserves in that area.

Nickel Situation Is Said Improved

TORONTO, April 28—(CP)—The situation with regard to the supply of nickel available for war equipment and other needs has progressively improved in recent months, due to increased output, to the return of nickel-bearing scrap to the steel mills and to conservation measures adopted by governments and industry, Robert C. Stanley, chairman and president of the International Nickel Company of Canada, Limited, told shareholders at the company's annual meeting here today.

Briefly reviewing the company's finances, the president said the company's net profit in 1942 was $33,301,329 in United States funds, after deducting taxes, compared with $34,356,401 in 1941. Provision for taxes was $25,070,285, the equivalent of $1.72 a share of stock outstanding. In 1937 taxes equalled 71 cents a share.

Capital expenditure in 1942, continued the president, totalled $12,000,497, against $11,730,041 in 1941. Depletion and depreciation provisions, including special amortization amounted to $13,073,687. Corresponding disbursements in 1943 should not exceed $9,000,000, he said.

Simonds Believes "Blitz" War Over

SOMEWHERE IN ENGLAND, April 28—(CP)—Blitzkrieg or lightning war, conducted with success by the Germans in Poland, the low countries and France, is unlikely to appear again in this war, Maj.-Gen. G. G. Simonds, youngest divisional commander in the Canadian army, said yesterday on returning from the Tunisian battlefront.

After witnessing the British 8th Army's advance from Gabes to Sfax during his 13-day visit with the forces of Gen. Sir Bernard Montgomery, the Canadian commander said in an interview that the period of "blitz warfare will not exist for us unless the morale of the enemy cracks up completely."

The rate of advance in future campaigns, he said, probably will be slowed down by huge mine fields and the placing of anti-tank guns well forward, defensive measures used by Marshal Erwin Rommel at many stages of the German retreat across Libya and in Tunisia.

NATIONAL SELECTIVE SERVICE

Men Born From 1902 to 1924 Must Prove Compliance With Mobilization Regulations When Asking Permits to Seek Employment

BY order of the Minister of Labour issued pursuant to National Selective Service Civilian Regulations, (P.C. 246, January 19, 1943) an important change is now made in regard to the issue by Employment and Selective Service Offices, of permits to seek employment.

After April 30, 1943, a permit to seek employment may be refused to any male person born in any of the years from 1902 to 1924, inclusive, who has reached age 19, unless such person presents satisfactory evidence that he has not contravened the provisions of National Selective Service Mobilization Regulations (that is, Military Call-up Regulations). Evidence required is to be in one of the following forms:

(a) A certificate of discharge from His Majesty's Forces after service during the present war; or

(b) a rejection slip issued by the Army on application for enlistment; or

(c) a certificate of medical examination issued by the Registrar of a Mobilization Board; or

(d) a postponement order certificate issued by the Registrar of a Mobilization Board; or

(e) in the case of a male person born in any of the years from 1902 to 1916 inclusive, a statutory declaration on a form available in the employment office, that he is not a "single person" under Mobilization Regulations.

Documents referred to in (a), (b) and (e) above need be presented only the first time a permit is sought after April 30, 1943, unless subsequently asked for by a Selective Service Officer. Documents referred to in (c) and (d) above must be presented each time a permit is applied for.

Two points under the new Regulations are to be specially noted:

(1) Male persons applying for permits by mail should forward with their applications the evidence required (except (e) above).

(2) A Selective Service Officer MAY furnish a permit without first being handed evidence, where the applicant's services are required for immediate employment, or where a permit is asked for by mail, but in these cases the evidence must be presented to the Selective Service Officer later, usually WITHIN THREE DAYS of the issue of the permit.

All men, born from 1902 to 1924, who have reached age 19, are urged to co-operate with Employment and Selective Service Officers in this matter.

Help yourselves, help others applying for permits, help the Offices to function smoothly, by having your documents with you when needed.

The Bulletin's SPORT SHOW by Hal Dean

SPORTS EDITOR

ALLAN Cup playdowns have once more become history and the Ottawa Commandos, rated for a considerable time as the powerhouse of Canadian hockey, have come through. They are a wonderful club, without question the greatest ever to have won the amateur championship.

But the Victoria Army will be remembered as the surprise entry in the playdowns and it is quite clear now the coast team had not been assessed at its true worth. The boys from Vancouver Island did make a very impressive showing in their own provincial series, but were not given much chance against the Calgary Currie aggregation.

However, they beat Lt. Tommy Anderson's men to the wire and then proceeded to spring another surprise by knocking over Winnipeg R.C.A.F. Their battle against the strong Ottawa club has been more or less of a revelation and many hockey fans are now of the opinion, and with some justification too, that if Pte. Bill Carse had been in the lineup Victoria would have taken the Allan Cup.

"SUGAR" JIM REPEATS

THIS is the second time for "Sugar" Jim Henry to belong to an Allan Cup winning aggregation, he having been with Regina Rangers two years ago when that team copped the title after the memorable series with Sydney Millionaires.

Oddly enough none of the other members of the Commandos have ever figured on a senior amateur championship squad. Bingo Kampman came close with Sudbury in 1936, but Kimberley Dynamiters finished on top.

Although they have been on Stanley Cup winners, this is the first senior final series for Neil and Mac Colville. They did reach the Memorial final in 1934, but the E.A.C. juniors lost out to St. Michael's College. The Colvilles turned pro with Philadelphia Ramblers from Brooklyn Crescents in 1935-36, eventually joining the New York Rangers.

It is unfortunate the referees were not changed for last night's game, particularly in view of the disputed goal. These two officials certainly didn't cover themselves with glory in handling Saturday's session and if the report is correct that Jim Henry admits the goal actually went in, then Victoria indeed has a real grievance.

WHY WAS IT NECESSARY?

JUST why there should have been any necessity for the Commandos, presumably an Army club, to have a civilian as manager and another as coach has never been explained.

Other service teams in Canada appear to have gotten along fairly well without having to go beyond their own branch of the service for competent business executives and mentors. Currie Barracks, Calgary Mustangs, Lethbridge Bombers and Red Deer Wheelers of the Alberta Senior Hockey league, all handled their own affairs without outside assistance and the same was evidently true in the case of other Western service clubs.

Certainly Victoria Army has been able to function successfully with Lieut. Bud Ray and Pte. Bill Carse attending to the coaching and the club did not have to go outside for any managerial help either.

There are of course some fairly obvious advantages in having a civilian as a go-between, but it would have looked much better and resulted possibly in more genuine satisfaction to the club members themselves had the Ottawa Commandos been kept a purely military organization in view of the fact that all of the players belonged to the Army.

Victoria Army Shut Out 2-0 in Fifth Game of Series

Ottawa Commandos Take Allan Cup East

Net Minding Of Jim Henry Major Factor

CALGARY, April 28. — (CP) — The high-powered Ottawa Commandos defeated Victoria Army 2-0 Tuesday night to win the historic Allan cup, emblematic of the Canadian senior amateur hockey championship of Canada.

It was their third victory in four games. Commandos copped the first and second games 4-3 and 6-4 respectively, while Victoria's lone success was a hard-won 4-3 decision in the third game here Saturday.

Lt. G. Poirier, Mac Colville and Cpl. "Sugar Jim" Henry gained the credit for winning last night. Poirier and Colville scored the Ottawa goals and "Sugar Jim" was unbeatable in the Commando net, turning aside all the westerner's efforts to make up the only shut-out of the series.

Rated a good thing from the commencement of the season, the starry Commandos with no less than ten ex-National Leaguers on their roster, played a close checking game. Their wearied and overanxious opponents missed numerous opportunities, although they displayed dogged determination and went down with flying colors.

Col. D. G. L. Cunnington presented the Allan cup to Neil Colville, captain of the Commandos immediately following last night's game.

Commandos actually won the game late in the first period when Lt. G. Poirier beat Nick Metz to the puck inside the Victoria blue line and circled around for a side shot from the line that evaded Cadet Rice-Janes for the first goal. Jim Henry playing marvelously the counter was as good as a million.

The second Ottawa goal was more or less of a gift. There was no goalie in the Victoria net when Mac Colville lodged the puck squarely in. In fact he fell into the wide open cage after the puck with the momentum of his rush.

Just before this brother Neil's long shot was blocked by Metz and Mac's first chance was two feet wide.

Despite the close checking play was very clean, only four penalties being imposed by the officials. These went to Sawchuck and Cooper in the first period and Porier and Kennedy during the third.

Outstanding in the contest was the spectacular performances of the two netminders. Victoria had chances galore to beat Henry particularly during the first period but the former New York Ranger star was in rare form and just couldn't be beaten. His most remarkable save was early in the game when he outguessed L.-Cpl. George Agar after the latter appeared to be home free on a breakaway.

Cadet Rice-Jones was equally as clever. He was well bealen on Poirier's shot and was on the Victoria bench when the second Commando goal was scored.

LINEUP

Sampson Has Top Softball Pitcher

SAMPSON, N.Y., April 28.— Apprentice Seaman Roy Stephenson, who has finished recruit training at the Naval Training Station here, shares top softball pitching honors in the nation with Shifty Gears, ambidextrous hurler of the Rochester Kodaks. Stephenson, 26-year-old Hicksville, L.I., giant, was invincible for the Grumman Aircraft team of Long Island for three seasons. Possessing a blazing fast ball, Stephenson has been called the Bob Feller of softball. Given a day at Freeport, L.I., last July, Stephenson predicted he would hurl a no-hit game and did. With the Grummans, Stephenson won 46 and lost 4, pitched four no-hit games, 63 consecutive scoreless innings, four games in one day. He fanned 20 out of 21, averaged 13.5 strikeouts.

Still "Sugar" Jim

Making his second bid for Allan Cup honors another success, "Sugar" Jim Henry was largely responsible for Ottawa Commandos 2-0 win over Victoria Army at Calgary last night. The former New York Ranger goalie was unbeatable, and his work in the first period, when he held off the determined soldiers from the coast, was particularly outstanding.

Coach Ray Not Satisfied

Players Glad Allan Cup Winner Finally Decided

CALGARY, April 28.—"Well, I'm glad that's over with." That wasn't an isolated comment last night after Ottawa Commandos won the historic Allan cup with a 2-0 fourth-game victory over Victoria Army. It was expressed freely in the dressing rooms of both teams as tired players relaxed after the strenuous climax of Canada's senior amateur hockey campaign.

There wasn't a great deal of jubilation among Ottawa players nor very much depression around the Victoria team.

Neil Colville, grey-haired veteran who came back to amateur ranks with Commandos after a great career in the National League with New York Rangers, was frank in his admission that the end of the series came as a great relief.

"I guess I can't get quite such a kick out of winning this series as I should," he said to questioners. "It seems a bit like going backward after once being on a team that won the Stanley cup which is the really big thing in a hockey player's life."

Lieut. Gordon Poirier, whose first-period goal really won the game for Commandos, was tickled pink at getting the payoff tally.

PAYOFF GOAL

"That goal was just twice as good as any I've ever made in hockey," he said. "I had only five inches of the net to shoot at and I knew I had to make it good."

"Sugar" Jim Henry, glad the series was ended, confessed that winning the Allan cup with Commandos didn't carry anywhere near as big a thrill as when he was with the Regina Rangers' championship team a couple of years ago. "When I played for Regina we weren't conceded a chance to even get out of our own league," he pointed out, "so you can figure it was something special in the way of thrills when we won the Allan cup. It hasn't been the same with Commandos because for several months now it has been conceded that we should win the title."

It was a coincidence for Henry that he scored a shutout—by 3-0—for Regina when the Rangers clinched the Allan cup in the series against Sydney in 1941, and that he also got a shutout this time by 2-0, in this last game of the 1943 final.

RICE-JONES SATISFIED

Over in the Victoria dressing room Lt. Bud Ray, manager and coach, still wouldn't admit that Commandos had a better club. He figured that Victoria's disallowed goal would have been enough to win the game and was emphatic that the puck had gone into the net. "Even Henry admitted later that the puck had gone into the net," he declared, a statement that was echoed by several Victoria players.

Art Rice-Jones, Victoria custodian, was like the rest of the players—"glad it was finished." But he gleaned a bit of personal satisfaction out of the series even though he came out a loser.

"I didn't do so well when I got into an Allan cup final with Calgary Stampeders against Kirkland Lake a few years ago," he said, "I'm more satisfied this time because I've proved to myself Commandos were tougher to stop than Kirkland Lake."

The Bissell girls took a two point advantage in the two-game total-point series for the Alf Blyth basketball trophy Tuesday night when they defeated Y.W.C.A. 30-28 in a contest played in the Y.W. gym.

Dot Myers paced Bissell to its victory with a total of 12 counters while Tony Grenier and Ada Forbes with 10 each led the losers.

Bella Riddle scoring six, Jean Chandler and Eleanor Robertson four each and Dorothy Quilley and Gwen Riddle two each accounted for the remainder of the winners' 30. Irene McKillop with eight was the only other Y.W. scorer.

Bissell opened the counting and held the lead until the last few minutes of the first quarter when Ada Forbes tied it up at 6-6. Each club hooped a field basket in the remainder of the session to leave the teams on even footing as they entered the second frame.

The Bissell girls went into the lead again when they got the first counter of the second canto, but fell behind as Y.W. came back strong to lose three field baskets through the hoop while the former was held scoreless to take a 14-10 lead at half time.

The Y.W.C.A. club remained out in front throughout the third session by out-counting the winners 8-6, but were overtaken when Bissell staged a fourth quarter rally to score 14 and win the game by two points while the losers were held to only six.

Lineups:

Bissell—Dot Quilley 2, Bella Riddle 6, Jean Chandler 4, Dot Chandler, Dot Myers 12, Gwen Riddle 2, Eleanor Robertson 4. Total 30.

Y.W.C.A.—Irene McKillop 8, Leona Miller, Ada Forbes 10, Francis Storey, Tony Grenier 10. Total 28.

Shibicky Sees Teammates Win

CALGARY, April 28. — (CP) — With his foot in a cast, Sapper Alex Shibicky, the Ottawa Commando left winger, sprung a surprise on his teammates when he was discharged from an army hospital last night just in time to arrive at the arena for the start of the fourth game of the Allan Cup finals.

Shibicky crashed into the boards during last Saturday's game, injuring his ankle and instep so badly that he will have to wear the cast for at least one month.

However, he will accompany Commandos when they take in the sights at Banff in the Rocky Mountains today. A steel brace around the injured leg enables him to hobble about.

Ocean Wave Proves Real Threat For Kentucky Derby

By SID FEDER

LOUISVILLE, Ky., April 28.—(AP)—Ocean Wave rolled around Churchill Downs' muddy racing strip like the Johnstown flood Tuesday—and for the first time even the mighty Count Fleet was threatened by the undertow.

Hitting as hard as his stable mate Whirlaway in Warren Wright's barn, the chestnut Wave ran off from a dozen others to take the Derby trial stakes by nine lengths and establish himself as something more than just the "best of the second place" set for Saturday's Kentucky Derby.

The Wave put the crusher on such other Derby hopefuls as J. Graham Brown's Seven Hearts, Mrs. Ethel V. Mars' No Wrinkles and Eddie (Rochester) Anderson's Burnt Cork, who trailed him home.

Count Fleet took the track between races before the estimated crowd of 8,000 and zipped through the mud for a mile and an eighth in 1:52 2-5 and the full Derby mile-and-a-quarter in 2:07.

But the Wave put on an even better show than the Gilamour Boy, as he came from way back in the mile-long trail to hit the wire in 1:38 1-5.

SLIDE RULE SECOND

Slide Rule and Twoses, W. E. Boeing's "Bombers," closed boxcar lengths of ground to finish second and fifth.

Mrs. Mars' No Wrinkles ran third, a length behind Slide Rule. He hit the tape three lengths to the good over the dark dark horse. Modest Lad, owned by Mrs. Henry L. Finch, wife of a New York stock broker.

The cash customers backed Ocean Wave down to $5.80 for $2.

At the finish, there was a moment of breathless waiting as Ocean Wave appeared to have pulled up in not exactly the way the fakir thought he should. But Ben Jones, who has the husky son of Blenheim trained to the minute, gave him a close once-over at the barn later and insisted 'it's nothing at all."

"We'll definitely be in the Derby Saturday," he declared.

INJURES HEEL

The colt came out of the race with a slight cracked heel on his left fore-foot. Trainer Jones explained. The same mishap had developed after he won the Blue Grass stakes last Wednesday, and added that it didn't bother him yesterday. He wasn't kidding, because the Wave did his stuff so easily that little Wendell Eads had time to look back all the way up the stretch and started flagging the flier down long before he reached the finish line.

On the other hand, Seven Hearts, owned by J. Graham Brown, the local huntsman and conqueror of Ocean Wave in the Arkansas Derby, appeared definitely out of Saturday's scramble after winding up seventh Tuesday. Trainer Jo Graves Sparks explained that something appeared to be hurting Seven Hearts although he showed no trace of an injury such as the broken foot bone which had been rumored earlier.

"Happy" Day Favors Killing Scrambly Hockey

TORONTO, April 28—(CP)—Coach Clarence (Happy) Day, of the Toronto Maple Leafs, Tuesday said he was in favor of any changes in hockey rules which give individual stars "A chance to show their stuff," and end scrambly hockey.

Commenting on the proposal of the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association to establish a centre ice blue line and permit defending teams to forward pass anything within their own zone, Day said:

"I am in favor of anything that will stop this scrambly type of hockey. This proposal seems to have possibilities, but I would like o go into it more fully before endorsing it as the solution."

Attendance records demonstrate that "scrambly" hockey hasn't detracted from the "gate," said Day, but the super-stars who "made hockey" are "being pushed under now."

VERY BUSY on WAR WORK

WE are very busy on munitions, the utmost production of which is the chief job of our men, women and machines.

We are ready, however, through our 2300 C.C.M. dealers in Canada, to supply genuine repair and replacement parts for the hundreds of thousands of C.C.M. bicycles already being ridden by fortunate people.

In these days of a bicycle scarcity "a bicycle saved is a bicycle made," and so we are making and distributing as many and as complete a range of replacement parts and safety accessories as materials available to the industry will permit.

We are doing this because it makes for a great saving of critical materials in so far as the bicycle industry is concerned. For example: if a thousand bicycles can be put back on the road, to carry essential workers, by the replacement of a pedal, crank, seatpost, chain or rim, a worthwhile amount of steel will be saved over the making of 1,000 new bicycles and the need for 1,000 bicycles will be met.

If you have a bicycle in your household that is not being ridden because of a needed repair part, take it to your C.C.M. dealer who will either have, or can get, the part needed to put your bicycle on the road again.

On the other hand, if you have such a bicycle, and do not need it, sell it to your C.C.M. dealer, who will give you a good price for it. He will condition it for use and sell it to a war worker or other qualified person.

Or, if you wish to buy either a new or used bicycle, and are a qualified applicant, see your C.C.M. dealer who will give you a Bicycle Purchase Application form to fill out. Such applications will be filled by dealers in order of priority if and when bicycles are available.

SERVICE PARTS FOR YOUR C.C.M.

In order that C.C.M. bicycles may be kept in good repair, C.C.M. are maintaining the best possible service on genuine C.C.M. parts and safety accessories by apportioning their available stocks to the 2,300 C.C.M. dealers across Canada. PRECISION BUILT FOR EASY RUNNING

NEW YORK, April 28.—As the war progresses, it becomes increasingly apparent that stamina and speedy legs are as necessary for the modern soldier as pulchritude and shapely gams for current chorus gals.

When peace comes and the boys return from the various fronts, they will have such a respect for running (and we don't mean to the rear) that we can expect an unprecedented interest in track athletics—particularly over distances that combine stamina and speed.

For the reason, we predict that within five years after cessation of hostilities some runner will register the long sought four-minute mile.

RUNNING BEST TRAINING

SPORTS experts have debated for months whether contact athletics—boxing, wrestling, football, etc.—are a better preparation for combat than mass-of muscle jerking. But boys who come back from the battle sectors say that running is the thing—that legs save your own life and help mightily in disposing of the enemy. The current highly-mechanized, air supported, fast-breaking warfare requires greater speed than ever among the foot soldiers. For example, one must have the speed and stamina to reach cover with equipment when hostile planes swoop down spraying death. Too, in taking enemy positions, one must have enough strength left for bayonet work after galloping through brush and over broken ground.

One can get an idea of the importance of legs in modern combat by reading, "Running to Paradise" by John Lodwick, a salty naval based on his own experiences.

Many imagine that the average youth is a good runner because of the impressive showings American athletes have made in international competition and in their never-ceasing assaults on the records. But such is not the case. Those athletes are exceptions.

LACK STRONG LEGS

NATIONAL selective service has discovered that the average youth—in the 17 and 18 year old group—is bigger and healthier than the average for previous wars, but lacks legs—that he can't run as fast as his father or grandfather could at the same age. The average youngster rarely asks for any distance and seldom runs, and you can't give a guy legs during his brief period of military training in this country.

Under the circumstances, it would be a great aid to the war effort if high school principals throughout the country could induce every able-bodied boy under their jurisdiction to get out and do a little running every day—not just the members of the track team.

When the war ends, the soldiers will return with a new and practical respect for running. Hence, the renaissance in running when the peace comes—and the resultant four-minute mile.

CANADIAN SPORTSHOTS

By CHARLES EDWARDS

TORONTO, April 28.—(CP)—Sportsmanship of Gerard Cote, the little French-Canadian sergeant from Valleyfield, Que., who won the Boston marathon this year for a second time, is related by Elmer Ferguson of the Montreal Herald.

Cote's wife carried three small bottles of tea to refresh the runner during the long grind. By the time he called for tea, Cote and Pte. Johnny Kelley of the United States Army were out in front by themselves. Gerry shared his tea with Kelley.

"That was repeated several times," wrote Fergie. "There were the two leaders, representing two great armies, fighting each other tooth and nail for the big prize, yet the one who had taken care to provide a refreshing, light stimulant was perfectly willing that his principal contender should share it with him.

"And it's typical of Cote, a thoroughly fine and modest sportsman. There was an occasion a few years back, when Cote had a chance to set a new record in the United States national championship marathon. Cote was racing well within himself, had the record in his grasp. A girl in a closely-following car stood up and called: 'Go ahead Gerry!'

"Right there, Cote slowed down his pace. For the girl who called to him was the widow of Pat Dengis, who had set the record not long before and had been killed in a flying crash. He just couldn't take the record away from Pat," said Cote."

Western Senior Outdraws East By Over $5,000

PORT ARTHUR, April 28.—(CP)—The Canadian Amateur Hockey Association profits from this season's play-offs, apart from the current National finals, totalled $37,934, but the report showed Tuesday that eastern Junior games netted only $183 and western Junior games showed a deficit of $2,511.

The revenues, exceeding the $37,586 for all play-offs a year ago, were due to excellent crowds at senior contests. Senior teams, bolstered by many former professional players, drew crowds that brought the C.A.H.A. revenue of $22,804 in Western Canada, and $17,461 in Eastern Canada.

A previous report carried by The Canadian Press gave Eastern returns as $8,472.

PHILADELPHIA, April 28.—(AP)—The track-minded Phillies won the foot race, but lost their home opening ball game to the National League leading Brooklyn Dodgers, 4-2, before 4,359 at Shibe Park Tuesday.

The foot race—termed an Australian pursuit race by youthful 33-year-old Phils' owner, William D. Cox—was part of the pre-game ceremonies dampened by inclement weather.

It went this way: A Dodger started at second base and a Phil player at home. Each tore around the bases and passed a baton to the next member of his team. After eight players had circled the sacks the Phils were adjudged to be farther ahead and hence the winner.

But since the umpires called "play ball" it was a different story, although the Phils chased Whitlow Wyatt to the showers in the seventh and were in the game until the last out.

COOPER BLANKS CUBS 7-0

ST. LOUIS, April 28.—(AP)—The Cardinals found their batting eyes in three timely rushes of Southpaw Truman's Park Tuesday and, despite the dead ball, hammered out a 7-0 victory for Mention Cooper over Chicago Cubs.

Opening the National League season at home before a crowd of 6,904, the Cardinals drove Paul Derringer from the box in a big first-inning rally that scored four.

The contrast between the work of Derringer and Cooper was apparent in the five hits, proved manager Billy Southworth's contention that the batting battle was not responsible for the lack of scoring in the major leagues.

"Don't overlook the pitching angle," he suggested. "Some pitchers when they're right can hold you to a few hits and shut you out with any kind of a ball."

PINCH HITTERS COME THROUGH

PITTSBURGH, April 28.—(AP)—Runs produced by three pinch hitters in an eighth-inning rally gave Pittsburgh a 4-3 National League victory over Cincinnati yesterday in the Forbes Field opener before 11,967.

Johnny Barrett's hitting for catcher Al Lopez in the seventh, doubled to left and scored Gary for Pittsburgh's initial run, and timely hits by rookies Johnny Wyrostek and Tommy O'Brien sent three Pirates across the plate in the eighth.

Ed Miller came in with Cincinnati's lone run in the first half of the seventh on Jerry Walker's base blow.

WASHINGTON, April 28.—(AP)—Rookie Jesse Flores Tuesday hurled Philadelphia to a 2-1 victory over Washington Senators in a gruelling 16-inning baseball marathon, the longest in the major leagues this season.

Flores and Early Wynn of the Senators vangled in a brilliant mound duel for 13 heats. Rae Scarborough took over for Wynn in the 14th.

Singles by Irvin Hall and Bob Wagner, a walk, a fielder's choice and Gerry Priddy's error produced the A's two scores in the 16th.

Flores yielded a single to Gene Moore and walked Stan Spence after two were out in Washington's half of the 16th. Roger Wolff sent to the mound for the Mackmen and Bob Johnson promptly lashed a double, scoring Moore from second and sending Spence to third. Wolff ended the game by forcing Jimmy Vernon to roll weakly to the infield.

Flores gave up six hits in 15 2-3 innings. He was second start of the year, having lost a two-hit performance to Boston last week. He walked seven and struck out three.

Wynn was nicked for six blows in his 13 innings on the mound. Scarborough, losing pitcher, gave up two hits.

On the other hand the Red Sox were held to six safeties, but used them to make four runs before Lefty Marius Russo was lifted in the sixth inning.

Altogether the Yanks left 14 runners stranded, the Red Sox 11.

U.S. Airmen Downed in Pacific Spend 65 Days Reaching Base

By OLEN CLEMENTS

WITH THE U.S. AIR FORCE IN THE SOUTH PACIFIC, April 18.—(Delayed)—(AP)—Sixty-five days of hell ended today for nine gallant American airmen who had been given up for dead.

Their amazing story began Feb. 9 after they left Guadalcanal in a Flying Fortress on a routine mission.

The bomber was attacked by two Zeros which were joined quickly by six more. The Japanese dived at the bomber's nose repeatedly, shooting out some of the four engines and wounding all nine men in the crew.

GUNS JAMMED

Most of the bomber's guns were jammed and useless but the crew kept blazing away with the useable guns, and downed two Zeros for sure and probably two more.

The other four Japanese planes hung on for a 30-mile running fight, the planes travelling 200 miles an hour. When the Nipponese quit the faltering Fortress, streaming oil, staggered toward home.

At this moment the propeller of another motor froze to the shaft. The crippled plane dropped from a thousand feet to 20 feet above the water.

Then the bomber ran out of gas.

The crew piled padded winter flying suits against the forward wall of the radio room to cushion the shock of a water landing. The plane came down gently.

RAFTS STOCKED

During the descent the crew had assembled and stocked two rubber life rafts with all food and water in the plane. The crew went out the top hatch. With a cheap compass they charted a course for Guadalcanal, 450 miles away.

Incessant rains gave them ample drinking water. Time after time they thought they saw land only to find low-flying clouds—a mirage. Rations got so low only three-fourths of an ounce of food daily was portioned among the men.

On the 15th day land was sighted, for sure, at dusk. They finally landed about dawn.

The island was tiny. Nearby islands all were small.

Timid, half-starved Melanesian natives finally made friends with them. They told of another white man on a nearby island. It was a navy man whose plane was shot down last August.

For five weeks the men let their wounds heal and hoped for rescue.

Finally five of them decided to make for friendly land in an outrigger canoe. None had ever sailed before and the outrigger capsized two miles offshore.

START OUT AGAIN

Then they started out again, this time taking a native to sail the canoe. Their destination was hundreds of miles across the ocean. The other four men were to wait until help could be sent.

The tired men reached an island a few days later and were picked up by a navy flying boat and taken to Guadalcanal. Army planes dropped food and medicine to the five men left behind on the islands until a navy flying boat picked them up and returned them to Guadalcanal.

Have Major Role

British Paratroops Fight As Infantry in Tunisia

By WILLIAM B. KING

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN NORTH AFRICA, April 26.—(Delayed)—(AP)—British parachute troops, who delivered the first blow in Tunisia against German ground troops last November, have fought as infantry in every sector held by the 1st Army.

In five months of fighting from Djebel Mansour to Sedjenane, the parachute troops lost many officers. Of the casualties, the minority were received while the parachute troops were acting in the primary role as airborne assault troops.

Their last major engagement was as the spearhead of the British attack which drove the Germans from Djebel Abiod to beyond Sedjenane in five days—a route which it had taken the Nazis three weeks to cover in the reverse direction.

TAKE 1,800 PRISONERS

During the Tunisian fighting the troopers captured a total of 1,800 prisoners, of whom at least 1,000 were Germans.

In addition, they accounted for 600 known dead, while the unconfirmed casualties inflicted on Axis troops must have been many times that number.

The parachute troops arrived in Algeria with the first elements of the invasion force and in quick succession units of the brigade jumped at Bone airfield, Souk-El-Arba airfield and Dipienne, near Pont Du Fahs.

The story of the escape of the last unit when ground forces failed to keep pace is one of the war's epics.

They captured the Ourna airfield, which held no German aircraft at the time, but the Nazis moved swiftly, sending an armored column to surround them.

BREAK THROUGH RING

When it became evident Allied ground troops would not be able to reach them, the battalion broke through the Nazi encircling ring and set out across the hills toward British positions at Medjez-El-Bab.

From Nov. 27 to Dec. 2 they marched up and down the hills, continually dodging German attempts to cut them off. In all they marched 90 miles and fought four battles with Nazi armor before they reached friendly territory.

Manitoba Teachers Seek Union Status

WINNIPEG, April 28—(CP)—The Manitoba Teachers' society approved a resolution at its 24th annual convention here yesterday instructing its research committee to report at the next conference on the advisability of affiliating with the Trades and Labor Congress of Canada or any other such union organization.

The resolution stated that "This province has been unable to gain for its members adequate economic security in comparison to other professions and trades, and that it is believed that affiliation with a larger and more influential body may be the most expedient way of gaining such security."

The convention also adopted a resolution urging immediate establishment of a minimum salary schedule. Delegates approved a minimum salary of $1,000 a year for elementary teachers, and salaries ranging from $1,400 to $2,000 for principals of rural schools.

Navy League Asks Formby and Coward To Tour Dominion

VANCOUVER, April 28.—(CP)—George Formby, British comedian, and playwright Noel Coward, have been asked to tour the Dominion this summer in benefit of the Navy League of Canada, Col. W. A. H. McBrien of Toronto told the 26th annual meeting of the league, which entered its second day here yesterday.

Also sponsored by the league will be an exhibition of pictures showing the bombing of London, which will be on display in all Canadian cities.

Lt. Cmdr. F. M. Jeffrey of Toronto announced 7,500 sea cadets would attend summer camps this year.

Daily War Map—Exclusively in The Edmonton Bulletin

The accompanying map shows the present disposition of Allied forces along the Tunisian battlefront and locates the scene of the week-end battles as the result of which the 1st Army made important progress. The French, who are fighting on the right flank of the 1st Army, have reported the capture of Djebel Mansour, which is the most important eminence in the district and which dominates the approaches to Pont du Fahs. With Djebel Mansour in Allied hands, it should be almost impossible for the enemy to hold Pont du Fahs, which is quite an important junction of road and railway.

Anti-Nazi Pressure

Denmark Continues Efforts To Avoid Internal Strife

By JOHN COLBURN

STOCKHOLM, April 28.—(AP)—Denmark, suffering from inflation and many other ills after three years of German occupation, nevertheless is still trying to avoid the violence and bloodshed which has accompanied Nazi domination elsewhere.

The little country's youth organizations are pressing for greater anti-Nazi activity, according to apparently reliable reports reaching here.

Denmark's Nazis, representing about one per cent of the 3,882,000 population, are clamoring for recognition. Their leader, Fritz Clausen, is reported in disfavor in high circles because of the party's dismal showing in the recent election. They are not even among the five Danish parties represented in the national front organized after the 1940 invasion.

USES "FORESIGHT"

Werner Best, Hitler's civil representative in Denmark, has the reputation of being more far-sighted than most Nazi administrators, and that may be why the Danes are faring fairly well. He apparently realized that, unless the Danes were allowed to conduct their own affairs, Germany stood little chance of profiting from the rich agricultural country.

How the Danes feel was reflected plainly in the recent balloting for parliamentary seats. The Danish national front parties polled 2,000,000 votes and the Nazis only 43,000.

Denmark, once a major larder for neighboring countries, has seen her production drop due to lack of feed. Germany has taken priority on Danish meat and 70 per cent of the export total goes to the Reich. Italy, Spain, Hungary, Bulgaria, Sweden and Finland get the rest.

PRODUCTION LOWER

Before the war Denmark slaughtered 6,000,000 pigs annually. Last year it was 1,200,000. Milk, butter and egg production are about 50 per cent of what they were in 1935.

Sixty-thousand German troops police Denmark. Germany "borrowed" 2,000,000,000 Danish crowns to support them. The matter of repayment is something for the future to decide. Repayment is not worrying the Danes, however, for money is plentiful. Inflation has become such a problem that the Nazis banned mention of the word.

Bracken Deplores Absence of Unity

VANCOUVER, April 28—(CP)—Canadians have paid much lip service to "Canadian unity" but such unity is noticeable chiefly by its absence, John Bracken, leader of the Progressive Conservative party, said yesterday in an address to the Canadian club.

"We must, as a community, accomplish national unity within our own boundaries," Mr. Bracken said. "The sore spots in our economic life have received too little attention. Sectional and group misunderstandings have too seldom been met with frankness."

Mr. Bracken reiterated his platform for "post-war reconstruction and declared "We must have national objectives of a character that will challenge the respect of our people, that will stand up under their most critical analysis, and that will command their militant support."

Former Minister Passes at Coast

VICTORIA, April 28.—(CP)—Alex Stewart, 78, finance minister in the short-lived Bowser provincial government of 1916, and who as mayor of Victoria in the First Great War had to read the riot act to quell civil disturbances following sinking of the Lusitania, died yesterday.

Teachers Protest School Board's Stand on Persions

Attitude of Trustees On Retirement Scheme Is Termed "Niggardly"

Charges that the Edmonton School Board is taking a most "niggardly attitude" in the matter of teachers' pensions were made by teachers' representatives at a meeting of the board held in the Civic Block Tuesday night. Chairman W. G. McConachie presided.

Discussion of the pension plan arose when a report, providing for the payment of retirement pensions in a flat sum, was submitted to the board for approval by the finance committee.

Clause four of the report followed the practice adopted by the board of deducting the sum of $25 per month, which it considered was amply compensated by the pension received by the teachers from the Alberta Teachers' Pension fund, established in 1939, and effective at the age of 65.

The clause read: "That the amount to be granted to teachers as a retiring allowance be a flat sum without regard to the annual salary previously received and be as follows: To those retiring in 1944, $2,000; 1945, $1,600; 1946, $1,200; 1947, $800; 1948, $400."

DISREGARD PAYMENTS

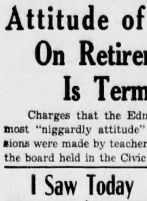

The above amounts shall disregard any payments which the retiring teacher may receive from the Alberta Teachers' Pension fund. The conditions required to quallify for an allowance, and the term of years over which the allowance shall be paid, shall be those laid down in the present retiring regulations of the board."

Speaking for the teachers, H. C. Clark stated that he found it difficult to believe that the school board would behave in such a manner towards the teachers. He compared the pensions proposed by the board with those paid by the city to its employees.

The proposal of the committee in no way followed the present trend towards social security, he stated. "People who work for a long time have a right to expect to be fairly well paid. He asked that the report be thrown into conference with the teachers

Getting Around

with Jack DeLong

The old, old problem of policemen wearing heavy, thick blue serge tunics in hot weather is before city council again. The city commissioners reported that Chief Constable Matthew Blackwood agreed the matter should be held in abeyance until after the war because of present difficulties in securing light-weight cloths.

Council didn't accept this report and referred the matter back to the commissioners for a more detailed investigation of the situation.

Of course there are many difficulties in connection with securing civilian materials and supplies at this stage of the war, and there is just no help for many.

THE QUESTION

Do you personally favor War Savings Stamps or the Victory Loan method of raising money for war needs?

THE ANSWERS

JEAN HUTCHINS, saleslerk: I prefer the Victory Loan and I have bought bonds in all the four campaigns. I save for the bonds during the periods between campaigns, and I guess that in the long run that is almost the same as buying certificates. But it doesn't matter as long as you buy either bonds or certificates, does it?

IRENE TAIT, machine operator: I always buy the bonds, because I feel they are the safest insurance for my savings during wartime. Besides, I like to think that though it's not much, what I do buy in bonds helps just a little bit more. I think that $50 or $100 turned over at once is of more help than the smaller amounts. I think the certificates are for those whose means are very limited.

RONALD ROSS, clerk: At our house, we both both. I buy the bonds, and my wife the stamps. In that way, we get our spare cash invested in both systems, so I can't say we favor one or the other. For a short-term investment, the certificates undoubtedly offer the best return, but they are not suited for investment purposes by large companies, and large sums. In fact, they have limited the amount one person can invest each year in certificates, have they not?

Three in Edmonton Family Serving Overseas

SPR. GORDON BROWN

FO. JACK BROWN

SGNR. TED BROWN

Three Edmonton-born and Edmonton-schooled lads, now serving Canada on overseas battle fronts are the Brown boys, formerly of 8025 118 avenue. They are sons of Mrs. H. T. S. Parlee of this city. Their father, the late J. M. Brown, served in the First Great War. Sapper Gordon, 22 years old, has been overseas nearly three years with the Royal Canadian Engineers. Flying Officer Jack Brown, 24 years old, is with the R.A.F. He enlisted in the spring of 1941. His wife lives in Edmonton. Signaller Ted Brown, 19 years old, has just arrived in England. All three attended Parkdale public and Eastwood high school. An older brother, Bernie, is with the Reserve Army.

Around The Town

The entire personnel of No. 133 Basic Training Centre, Canadian Army has now moved to Wetaskiwin, Col. E. E. Brown, M.M., E.D., area commandant, announced Wednesday. The last company moved to the new centre on Monday following the Victory Loan parade, under the command of Maj. R. J. Pratley. The centre is under the command of Lt.-Col. E. H. Strickland.

Guest speaker at a luncheon to be held by the Canadian Club in the Macdonald hotel on Tuesday will be Maj. H. G. Scott, liaison officer between the Canadian and Allied armies. Maj. Scott, who was called to the intelligence department at Ottawa at the outbreak of war, and who recently spent three months in Great Britain, will speak on "After Three Years." The luncheon will commence at 12:30 p.m.

Pte. Jimmy McIndoe, one-time a hockey star of the Lethbridge Maple Leafs and Flin Flon Bombers, and now stationed at the Camrose training centre, started out the army softball league by pitching a no-hit, no-run game, as his platoon won 2-0. In a seven inning tilt, McIndoe struck out an even 19 men, and walked two men to register the perfect hurling performance. One man reached third base.

A May Day rally will be held at the Mouse Temple on Sunday, when addresses will be given dealing with the Fourth Victory Loan and the opening of a second front. The committee in charge announces Wednesday that speakers would include Mrs. Isobel Ringwood, Mrs. Elizabeth Sterling Haynes, Ald. H. D. Ainlay, Robert S. Evans, James MacPherson and Jan Lakeman. Proceeds of the meeting will be turned over to the Victory Loan.

C. H. "Punch" Dickins, vice-president and general manager of C.P. Air Lines Ltd., arrived in Edmonton Tuesday to attend a conference of western lines superintendents being held at the company offices in the Administration building. He is expected to remain a couple of days.

Out her way to the north, Miss F. H. Eva Hasell, M.B., founder and honorary organizer of the Anglican Sunday School Mission to Dominion and her co-worker Miss Iris Sayle, spent Wednesday here. Among caravan workers who span the Dominion to carry on their Sunday school and welfare work for the Church of England, Miss Hasell and Miss Sayle will visit Cherry Point, near Rollo, B.C., where they will inspect a nursing outpost which Miss Hasell started five years ago. They will also visit six caravans.

The old stand-by of thousands of quick lunchers—the meat sandwich —will be off the bill of fare in all restaurants and public eating places come Tuesday, May 4, when meatless Tuesdays commence. For those who feel like complaining, officials of the Wartime Prices and Trade Board state that a part of Canada's war effort. Canada's shipments of meat to Britain must be increased if Britain is to maintain even the present low ration. The sange shipments feed Canadian troops overseas as well as British civilians. Exemptions to the ration will be people who work at manual labor, railway branches, lumber, mining, fishing, manufacturing construction and industrial camps, ships and hospitals.

Soldiers of the Canadian Army at home have again been warned against "thumbing" rides on the highways, it was announced Wednesday by headquarters of Military District No. 13, at Calgary. According to the regulations of a routine order dealing with the matter, "the solicitation of rides by personnel of the Canadian Army is strictly prohibited and inconsistent with the wearing of the King's uniform. There is, however, no objection to the acceptance by soldiers of transportation when such is offered voluntarily by the public." During the last winter many travellers reported assistance given them by soldiers along highways when storms and other emergencies caused delays.

A discussion of income-tax postponed at the last meeting will take place at the regular meeting of the Canadian Society of Cost Accountants and Industrial Engineers to be held at the Corona hotel on Friday, April 30, at 6 p.m.

The Kiwanis club bird house contest has been extended until next week it was announced by Roy Henry, secretary. Boys and girls with bird houses to enter may bring them to his office in the Capitol theatre building any day this week between 9 a.m. and 5 p.m. Prizes were delivered to the Hudson's Bay Company store on Monday will be looked after until the judging is done next Tuesday.

In line with the army's salvage and disposal program which utilizes every bit of equipment after it is worn out either by repairing it, offering to other government departments or selling it to manufacturers, a new course of instruction has been inaugurated for the repair of antigas equipment, respirators, haversacks, capes and other equipment. Among the first to undergo instruction in the new course will be a group from the Royal Canadian Ordnance Depots in eastern Canada.

Sgt. J. R. Ashmore, a first aid instructor at the C.A. (B) T.C. at Camrose, Alberta, is a living example of the amazing fact that it is possible for a man to be hit by a bullet and not know it. In fact Sgt. Ashmore was shot in the groin and thought he'd broken a tin of jam. It was in the first battle of Ypres in 1914, when a burst of machine gun fire caught him. He held up an injured hand, where one bullet struck, to one of his fellow soldiers, and after that was dressed, his buddy pointed to a trace of red coming through his uniform at the groin. "I told him that I must have broken a tine of jam that was in my pocket," Ashmore relates. "Suddenly I collapsed. I'd broken the jin of jam alright, but it was broken by a machine gun bullet that entered my groin."

Accident Victim Leaves Hospital

Mrs. Thelma Gerow, one of two accident victims as a result of the crash of two street cars on Thursday night last, was discharged from hospital, it has been learned. Motorman Nick J. Halisky, the other victim of the crash, was reported doing well. Both were taken to Misericordia hospital after the crash.

Man Fells Trees

Police who investigated a complaint that trees were being cut down near the river, found Sydney L. Webb, 70 years old, living in a dugout on the north bank of the river, below 97 street. The man, who said he had come from Camrose, had applied for old age pension and expected to be away at the end of the week. He was told to refrain from cutting more trees and asked to vacate the dugout.

Attempted Theft

Alfred Pike, 10575 112 street, reported to police authorities Tuesday that an attempt had been made to steal his car some time during the previous night. He had left the vehicle parked in the lane at the rear of his house about midnight and discovered in the morning that it had been pushed about 100 yards along the lane. The ignition switch wires had been disconnected, apparently in an attempt to start the car.

Chicks in Basement

With all the crowded conditions in Edmonton, where people are living from basements to skylights and garages to automobile trailers, the resident of one city block felt justified in complaining to police of a new type of resident in one basement. The latest addition was a flock of chickens, kept in a basement, which he said made a noise throughout the night.

Soldiers to Make Army Suggestions

Soldiers in the Canadian Army are soon to be encouraged to make suggestions for improvements in equipment and administrative methods and also submit new inventions, national defence headquarters at Ottawa announced Wednesday.

Officials propose placing "suggestion boxes" with all units where all ranks may place their suggestions which will be transmitted direct to N.D.H.Q. where they will be individually acknowledged. Men may also make suggestions through their commanding officers.

Announcement of the plan will soon be made through routine orders while posters are to be sent to units with directions as to the type of ideas to be developed.

Grant of an award to men and women in the services whose suggestions are found to be valuable is also being considered.

Scholar Arrives To Give Address

Dr. Lennox C. Mills, department of political science of the University of Minnesota, and a former Rhodes scholar arrived here Wednesday morning to address a meeting of the Edmonton branch of the Canadian Institute of International Affairs.

He is a graduate of British Columbia, Toronto, California, and Harvard Universities, and secured his doctor of philosophy degrees at Oxford.

An authority on eastern affairs Dr. Mills stated that Britain and the United States would recover all territory lost to Japan.

Boys Take Wieners

Two boys, 11 and 13 years old, admitted to police they had stolen a box of wieners Monday from a packing house delivery car while the driver was in a 121 street store. They took the wieners into the bush and ate some of them, and others were thrown away. The boys agreed to pay for them.

TIME TO CHANGE TO SUMMER OIL AND LUBRICANTS NOW

It's time to have your crankcase drained, flushed and filled with the proper grade of summer oil. Proper and thorough lubrication is also most essential . . . it will protect your car from end to end and eliminate small but costly repair bills.

Fat Men Find Woe Aplenty

They Pay Extra—Or Take a Tent

In Quest for New Clothes

By STANLEY WILLIAMS

Woe is to the fat man, in the lean war years!

These fellows you see walking about the streets, beaming on the world above three chins, carrying a 44-"beam" around the beltline, aren't quite as happy as you would think.

To begin with, there is the matter of rationing—sugar, ice cream, whipping cream, candy, and the complete absence of those nice, gooey pastries the bakeries used to delight the palate (and waistline) with.

But now comes the crowning insult of all—the government has, in effect, put a tax on fat men! Absolute, downright discrimination!

If it applied to all men, we could take it—we're right with the government when it comes to winning the war. But why single us out as a special, plump target for some administrator at Ottawa, who has never been faced with buying a suit tailored along ample lines? What do these streamlined, beau brummel administrators know of clothing difficulties of the heavier element of the community?

TAILORS "EXPLAIN"

The regulation concerning us heavyweights was not ushered in with fanfare—it was left to our poor little tailors to explain the best way they could. Mine didn't make a very good job of it, either.

We were down at his establishment the other day, getting measured for the annual spring blossoming.

"No cuffs on the pants," said Joe. (That's the tailor).

"That's O.K.," said I.

"No pleats in 'em either."

"O.K." (They're a bother anyway.)

Plan to Raise Standards of Physique Here

Explanation of a planned program to raise the standard of physical fitness of Canadians, as embodied in the proposed physical fitness bill of the Dominion government, was made at a meeting Tuesday in the Empire room of the Hudson's Bay Company store by Mrs. Cora T. Casselman, M.P. for East Edmonton.

A large number of teachers, attending the annual convention of the Alberta Teachers' Association, attended.

Dr. G. Fred McNally, deputy minister of education, was chairman, and a second speaker was F.O. Bird, R.C.A.F.

Mrs. Casselman said the proposed act calls for establishment of a national council of physical fitness, with a paid director and nine volunteer workers, one from each province.

SET ASIDE FUND

A fund of $225,000 will be set aside for the program. Efforts will be made to encourage and correlate all activities relating to physical education. The program will be extended to schools and universities, and teachers and lecturers will be trained.

The program includes games, sports, rhythmics, swimming, aquatics and life saving.

A. W. Eriksson of the Edmonton normal school was named head of a committee to prepare a statement and make recommendations that will be handed to Mrs. Casselman, in connection with the proposed program.

Another meeting will be held soon.

Badges Awaiting Retired Soldiers

Discharged or retired soldiers of the Canadian Active Army are requested to communicate with the awards section of the department of national defence, Ottawa, giving their present address so that the War Service (Discharged) badge may be mailed to them.

According to word from national defence headquarters several thousands of men who have left the service before February, 1942, when the service badge was first issued, cannot be located. Relatives and friends of such former soldiers are asked to communicate information of this award to them.

The lapel badge, in the form of a shield, surmounted by a crown, contains three red maple leaves on a silver background, with the words "General Service." On the reverse side is inscribed a serial number to aid in identification if lost.

Transferred

Lt. G. E. Blais, for the past two years adjutant of the 2nd (Res.) Battalion, Edmonton Regiment under command of Lt. Col. R. W. Hale, M.C., who has been transferred to the headquarters staff of Military District No. 3 at Ottawa. Lt. Blais left Tuesday night for the east. Prior to enlisting in 1940 he was an employee of the provincial secretary's department of the provincial government. He is a veteran of the First Great War.

Road Report

DOROTHY DIX SAYS—

Mother's FBI Methods Kill Love of Daughter

Parent Should Be Like Intimate Friend to Girl; Should Discuss Ideas, Boyfriends, General Life With Her as Real Friend

It is the manifest duty of every mother to guide and protect her daughters through the dangerous teen-age, and there is nothing more tragic and pitiful than that so many of them make such a failure of their job. This is not because they have deliberately shirked their duty, but because they have used the wrong methods in dealing with their girls, and that having lived with their Mamies and Sadies ever day since they were born they know them so little that they haven't even a speaking acquaintance with them.

Everywhere you go you encounter mothers who are beating on their breasts and wailing out that they can't do a thing with Mamie, or that Sadie never confides in them, and that they don't know what girls are coming to in this day. And it never occurs to them that have never taken the trouble to learn how to approach their daughters and handle them diplomatically. They still go upon the theory that their girls have never outgrown their infantile belief that Mother is an oracle who always knows best, and that they will automatically continue to ask her permission about their every act, and tell her what they do.

EXTRA TACT DEMANDED

Unfortunately this idea of handling a girl seldom works beyond the twelfth year plan. Adolescence, like everything else, has been speeded up in this fast-going, modern age. Mamies and Sadies are beginning to feel their oats and if Mother wants to prevent their bolting way and keep them jogging along in the straight and narrow way, she has to drive with a light and knowing hand.

To begin with, she has to transform herself from an autocrat into a friend. She must cease being she-who-must-be-obeyed and become the tactful adviser. This may put a crimp in Mother's ego, but it gives her a terrific hold on her daughters. For, after all, these youngsters, for all the bold and assured front they put on, are frightened and bewildered by this new world they are entering and long for some strong hand to cling to while they are learning its ways.

And it might be Mother's, if only she would hold out to them its sympathy and understanding. It makes one shudder to think how many girls could be saved from blundering into committing the follies that wreck their whole lives if only they were on intimate enough terms with their mothers to talk over their little love affairs.

EASILY SHOCKED MOTHERS

But they can't do it with Mother being shocked to death at the very mention of a petting party, and pretending that when she was a girl when a boy came to see her he sat on one side of the room and she sat on the other, and they discussed politics and the weather instead of making love, and that she never even kissed Father until after they were married.

Probably there isn't any young girl who wouldn't like to talk things over with Mother if she could, and when she doesn't it is because she knows Mother isn't going to understand or sympathize with her. She doesn't tell Mother what she is going to do if she knows that Mother is going to say DON'T. And she doesn't confide in Mother because Mother will blab her secret to Grandma and Aunt Nell and the woman across the street. Or maybe make a funny story of it to tell at dinner parties.

Many mothers lose all touch with their daughters because they use FBI methods in dealing with them. They spy upon them. They open their letters and read them. They listen in on their telephone conversations. They eavesdrop their dates. And they put them through a third degree inquisition about everything they do and everywhere they go, and it isn't all flesh and blood to stand this without resentment.

TURN THEM INTO LIARS

Mothers justify themselves in this by claiming that they have a right to know what their daughters are doing, but by so doing they take the worst possible method of finding out, for they not only shut off all voluntary confidences from the girls, but kill the girls' affection and respect for their mothers and turn them into liars and deceivers.

A girl once said to me: "I cannot tell you how I felt when I found out that my mother had searched through my bureau drawers while I was at work to see if I had anything hidden from her, and that she broke the lock on my diary so she could read what I had written in it. I had always loved her and looked up to her, but now she is horrible to me. She seems to me like an enemy who is trying to get something on me, when I am innocent. It just killed something in me to know that she didn't trust me."

All of which boils down into saying that if you want your girls to protect her daughter she should be her most intimate friend, instead of a policeman.

Many readers write in and ask what dreams are made of, and there are few living persons who have not experienced this phenomenon. There are those who quite seriously consider that dreams have a definite meaning, which when properly interpreted may direct the life of the individual.

Biblical history shows that thousands of years ago, great significance was placed on the interpretation of dreams, but it was not always easy to find someone who held the key to the true meaning of the dream. Scientists and psychologists explain that while we are asleep, a small part of the brain or nervous system, may remain awake and that dreams are produced by a wakefulness of specialized intellectual centers, while the main brain or nervous system, may remain awake and that dreams are produced by a wakefulness of specialized intellectual centers, which produce mental pictures or dreams.

I find that as a general rule, those who dream the most are the ones who eat a hearty snack before retiring, and this habit of eating before going to bed is often the direct cause of indigestion, in both children and adults. Sometimes a dream has been so vivid that the subject remembers clearly upon awaking, just what it was all about, but the majority are unable to recall what the subject matter was. I have known people who upon awakening in the morning wrote down the material contained in their dreams and consulted dream books, thinking that the symbols could foretell events of the future. This of course is an interesting pastime for amusement purposes, but it is a timeworn superstition and most psychologists agree that dreams are meaningless.

One of the commonest causes of dreams and nightmares is intestinal gas, and this will often produce restless, fitful sleeping, or in some cases insomnia or the inability to sleep at all.

Considering the mental aspect as a causative factor, it is well known that worry and anxiety also play their part. Quite often, an individual may accomplish in his mind during sleep those things which he would like to do when awake, but is restrained by some mental inhibition.

Then again there are those who talk, sing, sit up or walk during sleep. This is known as somnambulism. The sense may be partly awake so that the individual may answer questions with more or less accuracy, but forget completely upon awakening. Occasionally, but rarely, a patient may undergo the opposite condition in which the muscular system is asleep while the intellectual facilities are wide awake. This causes a patient to believe that he is paralyzed, but the condition does not last for long and slapping of the muscles will usually awaken them immediately.

The most frequent causes of inability to sleep are excessive gas formation in the intestines, digestive disturbances or toxins in the blood stream.

In order to eradicate dreams or nightmares, it is necessary to remove the true cause.

All questions regarding health and diet will be answered. Large, stamped, self-addressed envelope must be enclosed. Write on one side of paper only. Letters must not exceed 150 words. Address McCoy Health Service, The McCoy Building, 1151 West 6th Street, Los Angeles, Calif.

Debunker

According to the noted authority on Botany, Asa Gray, the sharp projections on rose bushes are not thorns at all but are "prickles". A thorn is a spine or sharp process of a degenerate branch which is leafless and indurated. The prickles of rose bushes are merely outgrowth of the skin not thorns—but they will scratch just the same.

If the jack of hearts is played from dummy, the question cannot be developed, because on the long queen of spades, declarer will have nothing to discard except the queen of hearts. However, if he lets the first heart ride to his queen, then goes over to dummy and finesses the diamond, West naturally will not return a heart. If he leads a diamond or a spade, declarer cashes all of the diamonds, the ace of hearts, the ace and king of spades, and discards the eight of hearts on the queen of spades. On this play West will be squeezed. He will not be able to guard the king of hearts and the fourth club.

Your Baby And Mine

By MYRTLE MEYER ELDRED

Train trips are so uncommon these days that they hardly bear discussion, or so I thought. But several of my readers have reminded me that parents are grandaddies to visit, or families to be transported to them or to relatives and all of this entails train travel.

Mrs. A.W. asks specifically about the feeding of a year-old child and also, "Though she now wears training panties, would diapers be better for the trip?" Mrs. J.A.L. has a 7-months-old baby who must be taken on a two-day trip. "What precautions should I take to protect her health? How can I make her comfortable for eating, sleeping and playing? What services and conveniences can I command on the train?"

In general let me say that it is better to expect nothing. Service men come first and many a traveler has gone two days without getting a glimpse of the diner. So take a good supply of food for yourself and everything needed for the babies.

Try to plan to get your accommodations far ahead and try for a section, a bedroom or a drawing room so that you can have washing and toilet facilities conveniently at hand.

Pack all of the baby's foods and toys in one suitcase, use another for the clothes and diapers and another for your own clothes. Someone will always carry them for you.

Take a supply of boiled water in a thermos for preparing the food and for drinking purposes. Carry small cans of evaporated milk, or a large package of dried milk, so that each formula can be prepared as used. Sugar, milk and the boiled water will make that task fairly easy.

Carry small cans of vegetables or fruits, small packages of cereal, plus zwieback and fresh oranges. The supplies for two days will not be excessive. If you can manage a small electric bottle warmer for heating the formula and the food, you can be entirely independent.

Take two or three bottles, wash them well with bottle brush and soap after each feeding, rinse and fill with strong soda water.

Use the baby's own blankets and pillow, take along a small seat such as is used in autos for convenience in feeding the baby and to make him comfortable during play hours.

Keep passengers away, if possible. Use paper diapers inside of regulation thin-type diapers which can be rinsed out and dried easily. A short clothes line is convenient. You'll need enough clothes for the two days with no washing.

Luckily for children the motion of the train makes them sleepy and it is the trip is well planned it can be endurable if not pleasant.

Our leaflet, "Traveling with Children," is now out but still applicable. It may be had by sending a 4-cent stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request to Myrtle Meyer Eldred in care of this newspaper.

What To Do

How should a maid be dressed, and who provides the uniforms?

Answer—Usually a maid who is hired to serve a meal will provide her own uniform. However, a regular maid has her uniforms furnished by you. The required number would be about four morning uniforms, pin striped or plain color in cotton. If there are children, all while looks well. With this she wears a sturdy white apron. Two afternoon uniforms should be sufficient. These are of rayon, poplin moire or the like in black, grey or maroon. They have long sleeves and dainty aprons and collars and cuffs of organdie.

My Day

By ELEANOR ROOSEVELT

FT. WORTH, Texas—We reached Corpus Christi, Texas, yesterday morning about 12:30, and proceeded at once to the naval air training station, where Rear Admiral Hamilton, including President Roosevelt and President Camacho, with three ladies, Mrs. Alfred Montgomery, wife of the admiral in command, Madame Camacho, and myself, lunched at the officers' mess. The other ladies of the party lunched with the Waves. At the end of our meal, Mrs. Montgomery, Madame Camacho and I left the gentlemen and went to the Waves for a short time, as I missed hearing my husband speak to the cadets.

There is quite a big contingent of Waves here. I was amused to learn that some of the officers, who had been very much opposed to them, were now clamoring for more. These first graduates are doing pioneer jobs and, from all accounts, are doing them very well.

We returned to the cadets' mess in time for Madame Camacho to stand beside her husband, while nine Mexican aviation cadets and their complete ground crews were presented to both their own President and to Franklin Roosevelt. They are a fine looking set of young men. I understand that at this training station there are also groups from other South and Central American countries, so we are putting a real good neighbor policy into action.

We drove all over the station, through the repair shop, and to the ally, out to a point of vantage where we could see many planes fly over us in formation. They gave us an exhibition of dive bombing, which was quite extraordinary and thrilling to watch. I had never realized that it took quite as much nerve had to be and was told that those we watched were just students and still considered in the early stages of proficiency.

Back on the train, Madame Camacho and I sat listening while the two presidents talked for an hour before we reached the junction where our two trains separated. When President and Madame Camacho boarded their own train and started for Mexico, we stood on the platform and waved them good-bye.

I vowed inwardly that, before we met again, I would know a little more Spanish than I do now. To articulate as I was, I still feel it was valuable to have this contact with our neighbors to the south. In order, I shall look forward more anxiously than ever to the day when I can really pay Mexico a longer visit.

I am back in Fort Worth this morning and spending another pleasant day at the ranch, with a chance to see little David again and to make some tentative plans with Ruth for future meetings. Tonight, Miss Thompson and I are on our way to Phoenix, Arizona, but I shall not be able to tell you about that day until later.

Modern War Kitchen

By MRS. GAYNOR MADDOX

There are seven basic food groups. Eat some food from each of them every day. But be sure you know what foods belong in each group. For example, potato is not part of Group 5 (proteins). It belongs under fats and oils and is valuable only for its calories and flavor.

Group 6 (bread, flour and cereals —natural wholegrain—or enriched and restored) does not contrary to popular opinion, include macaroni, spaghetti and other pastes, crackers, white rice or bread or rolls made of white flour enriched flour.

If you include bacon or white rice or macaroni, etc., in your menus, you must count them as extras. Then must also be some foods from each of the seven basic groups.

LOVE IN DISGUISE

One calf's heart (or sheep or beef heart), 2 tablespoons finely chopped suet, 1 teaspoon marjoram, ½ tsp grated lemon, 1 egg yolk, 3 slices fat bacon, ¼ cup stale enriched bread crumbs, 2 teaspoons chopped parsley, 1 tablespoon minced ham, ½ teaspoon made mustard, ½ teaspoon salt, ¼ teaspoon pepper, vermicelli.

Break up the vermicelli into short lengths, cook 12 minutes in boiling water; drain and put aside. The butcher will have cleaned the heart well for you but let it lie in cold water for one hour. Make a stuffing of all the ingredients except the bacon and bread crumbs. Wipe the heart dry, put the stuffing in and wrap the bacon over it so it won't escape and skewer the slices. Wrap the whole in grease-proof paper, greasing it well with lard. Tie the paper round and bake in a good oven for 1½ hours. Remove and take off the paper. Brush the heart over with the egg mixture and roll it in the bread crumbs mixed with the cooked vermicelli. Cook for another 25 minutes or until the crumbs are well browned and serve with tomato sauce or rich brown gravy.

Tomorrow's Menu

(Eat the Basic Seven Foods)

Breakfast: Half grapefruit (Group 2). Cereal with cream (Group 4), toast (Group 6), butter or fortified margarine (Group 7), coffee, milk (Group 4).

Luncheon: Cream of tomato soup (Group 1, 3, 4), cheese and vegetable casserole (Group 1, 2, 5), baked potatoes (Group 3), buttered cabbage (Group 1), rolls with butter or fortified margarine (Group 6, 7), rhubarb and apple pie (Group 3), tea, milk (Group 4).

Dinner: Lamb chops (Group 5), scalloped potatoes (Group 3), buttered asparagus (Group 1), enriched rolls with butter or fortified margarine (Group 6, 7), tapioca cream pudding (Group 2, 3), tea, milk (Group 4).

WEAR SUSPENDERS—AND LIKE THEM

HOLLYWOOD—(CP)—Tired of your own accessories? Try your husband's. The girls in Hollywood are having fun with the mannish accessory theme.

If you have trouble keeping your skirt hanging at an even keel, you might take a tip from Nancy Coleman. She wears suspenders.

Instead of an honest-to-goodness belt, Dolores Moran slips a brown and yellow tie through the belt loops of a beige flannel skirt and wears it ends flying, as a belt. A fondness for vests causes Brenda Marshall to swipe her husband's vests.

Bride-Elect Guest-of-Honor Wednesday Tea

Mrs. B. M. Hibbert entertained 150 guests at her home, 6018 Jasper avenue, Wednesday afternoon and evening at a trousseau tea in honor of her daughter, Miss Eileen Hibbert, whose marriage to LAC. John Wood takes place next Saturday. For the occasion Mrs. Hibbert chose a figured silk jersey afternoon dress with a corsage of gardenias and her daughter wore a white silk jersey street length frock with a corsage of deep red roses. Receiving with them was Miss Elva Wood, sister of the bridegroom. Her dress was dusty rose with a corsage of matching flowers.

Receiving guests in the drawing room tastefully decorated with bowls of spring flowers were Mrs. William McAfee, Mrs. Frank Pyle, Miss Francis Pyle and Mrs. E. Brooks.

The tea table, laid with a hand made cloth, embroidered in cross stitch flowers and with inserts of lace, was centred with a bowl of mixed flowers and tall tapers. Pouring tea were Mrs. Allan Wood, Mrs. D. A. Thomson, Mrs. E. E. Hyde and Mrs. Lord.

Serviteurs included Miss Beverly Carlyle, Mrs. Kieth von Falkenberg, Mrs. Frank Farley, Mrs. John Glasgow, Mrs. D. Cormack, Mrs. Fred Dennison, Mrs. Pritchard, Miss Eunice Rae, Miss Evelyn Miller, Miss Olive Robertson and Mrs. Hugh Miller.

Those showing the trousseau and wedding gifts were Mrs. V. Welles, Miss Dorothy Turner, Mrs. Barchard, Mrs. Gordon McLeary, Miss Norma Pyle and Mrs. Harold Campbell.

Noted Kiwanis Glee Club Plans Concert for Navy Mothers' Club

Jack Strachan and Alex. Cameron, noted Scottish comedians who have been a highlight of the Kiwanis Club revue, "Kiwanis Kapers of 1942," which scored a big hit on several previous presentations, and which will be repeated by special request at the Strand theatre next Sunday evening in aid of the Navy Mothers Club. Messrs. Strachan and Cameron can be certain of raising gales of laughter, and their act in this show is said to be unsurpassed among their many achievements.

Edmonton's Kiwanis Glee Club, one of the finest glee clubs in Western Canada, will give a concert under the auspices of the Navy Mothers' Club at the Strand theatre on Sunday evening, May 2, to provide funds to send comforts monthly to approximately 100 boys from Edmonton serving with the Royal Canadian Navy, and the Royal Canadian Naval Volunteer Reserve.

Many leading local artists will assist the glee club in this concert, which will be one of the musical treats of the spring season.

In the main the concert will be a production of the popular revue "Kiwanis Kapers of 1942."

The Navy Mothers' Club requires approximately $450 monthly to meet the costs of woolens that make up the parcels sent to sailors, and to provide them with comforts so necessary to the upkeep of their morale while on active service.

The Navy Mothers' Club, a group of about 450 women in Edmonton, also make leather jackets from old pieces of leather, as well as mitts, sweaters, and other articles of wearing apparel.

The club supplies each sailor from Edmonton with a sleeveless sweater, a duck-in, that takes the place of a scarf a pair of mitts, two pair of socks, and a helmet.

Anglicans Plan Drama Night Girls' Festival

Anglican Sunday schools, diocese of Edmonton, will hold an annual dramatic night, together with a girls' festival, on Friday in All Saints' Hall, commencing at 8 a.m. and continuing through the day.

Competitors will try for prizes in the following divisions: First aid, music, posters, essays, dramatics, knitting, sewing, singing, reading, care of the altar and Christian symbolism.

A silver challenge cup, engraved with the W.A. cross has been donated by the Dominion Board of the W.A. to be awarded to the group obtaining the highest aggregate of points.

Groups known to be competing are the junior and teen age groups from Barrhead, Onoway, Manville, Wainwright, and in the city from Christ Church, All Saints, St. Faith's, St. Peter's, St. Paul's, St. Luke's, Holy Trinity, and St. Mary's. St. Faith's Brownies will also compete.

The festival will close with a dramatic presentation of seven of the parables of Our Lord, together with Bible readings, songs and recitations by winners of those competitions. The evening session, open to the public, will start at 8 p.m. and will be under the chairmanship of Rt Rev. W. T. Barfoot, Anglican bishop of Edmonton.

Women Demand Better Homes In Post War Reconstruction

By DENISE DALTROFF

LONDON, April 28.—(CP)—A demand for a guarantee against "jerry-building" when reconstruction starts after the war has been submitted to the government by the Women's Advisory Housing Council in an ambitious plan for a perfect dwelling.

The council has submitted a series of important suggestions to the Ministry of Health and also urged that a prime condition of tenancy or purchase of a flat or house should be a certificate to ensure the buyer of "good quality and standard of material and design."

Numerous practical suggestions were put forward for the perfect dwelling, but the essential stressed that it was of little use providing modern houses with "obsolete" equipment unless the occupants know how to make the best use of them.

ATTITUDE OF MIND

"A fresh attitude of mind is needed in regard to home-making and home-keeping," said the council. "It should be given a higher standard and a more inspiring appeal. The art and science of homemaking should be part of training in citizenship so that pride in the home may soon become inherent in the nation."

The council argued that measures introduced by the State could not be a satisfactory substitute for the good home background and suggested more articulate liaison should be formed between housewives and local authorities.

It urged that rents for bigger families should be controlled so parents of more than two or three children were not penalized. Space should never be sacrificed as mean dimensions could never be remedied and were one of the basic failures of bad houses.

SOUND PROOFING

Other suggestions included: Walls between houses and flats should be sound proof, staircases should be wider and more "easy-going"; larger larders with space for a refrigerator and more built-in cupboards, including a heated linen cupboard in every house, hot and cold water and at least a small garden with an allotment.

Block Leaders Are Needed in Eastwood Zone

The Citizen's Volunteer Bureau is asking for "block leaders" in Eastwood Community. This is district No. 6 on the A.R.P. map with the following boundaries: south, Norwood Boulevard; north, 124 avenue; east, C.N.R. tracks; west, 94 street. This is one of the last districts to be organized.

Each block leader is asked to get information to about ten of her closest neighbors when a message is being sent through the block system. Usually this amounts to about one hour's work each month. It is not necessary for a block leader to have a telephone nor does she have to "join" any organization. She simply works as a citizen of Edmonton for any project of community welfare or needed in the war effort. Although the few calls each block leader makes might seem insignificant in themselves the work of many hundreds has proven to be of tremendous value in the war effort.

Appeals have already been made by the Citizen's Volunteer Bureau through its block leaders for books and magazines for service men's libraries, salvage, articles for the superfluity shop and woolen material for Bundles for Britain.

Anyone who will volunteer to help out with this work in the Eastwood district mentioned is asked to telephone Mrs. A. U. Primeau, 72019 or the Citizens' Volunteer Bureau office 28876.

ELECTRIC IRON

Your electric iron is one of your most valued servants. If you expect "duration" use of it, you must know how to use and care for it. Keep the sole of the iron clean by wiping it off with a damp cloth, soapsuds or mild scouring powder. Never do this while iron is connected or even still hot. Avoid pressing over buttons or other sharp articles; never drop the iron; never put it away before it is perfectly cold. Also, when the cord becomes worn, replace it with a new one.

Two-piece rayon crepe, against the fashion of the old-fashioned coats draped during a heat wave two years ago, this time some plan for uniform output should be drawn up right now.

Canada could at least grant authority to the chief constable to use his judgment on wartime summer ways and permit officers on duty to doff tunics when the temperature reaches a certain specified level. The war may last for years and there are a lot of days ahead.

The ordinary citizen should give this matter some interested consideration. Any cop who has to sweat inside one of those serge coats on a hot day is apt to reach pitchfastily for his pad and pencil when he sees a fellow committing some minor breach of a city bylaw.

It's good insurance to keep our policemen cool.

Council again seemed to be mesmerized Monday when it was decided to draft a new curfew bylaw, ending the time that youths of 16 and under may be on the streets unescorted, to 10 p.m.

An Edmonton hotel clerk is said to have been assaulted with a blackjack by the husband of a woman to whom clerk made requests to speed up her bath, as others were waiting.

We think the story would be more nearly true if the husband, trying to get in the bathroom had assaulted the occupant.

SANG AVE MARIA IN PRISON CAMP

LONDON — (CP) — Austral Bourne, Australian prima donna, sang Gounod's "Ave Maria" many times in the Italian concentration camp where she was imprisoned. It helped cheer herself and her companions, because instead of applause she asked for, and was given, a plate of food. This on arrival in London after repatriation. Last November the Nuncio Apostolico Buogiorno Duca was a member of the audience in the shabby drafting room of her concentration camp. It was he who took initial steps to free Miss Bourne when she was studying music in Italy when the war started. "Many times I thanked God for the gift of my voice because it meant an extra helping of food for all of us for our evening meal," she said.

Legal Notices—

Notice to Creditors and Claimants

IN THE ESTATE OF THOMAS FRANKLIN CAIRNS, late of the City of Edmonton, in the Province of Alberta, Veterinary Surgeon, deceased.

Notice is hereby given that all persons having claims upon the estate of the above named Thomas Franklin Cairns who died on the 12th day of March, A.D. 1943, are required to file with National Trust Company Limited, Edmonton, Alberta, by the 5th day of June, A.D. 1943, a full statement duly verified of their claims and of any securities held by them, and that after that date the executors will distribute the assets of the deceased among the parties entitled thereto having regard only to the claims of which notice has been so filed or which have been brought to their knowledge.
Dated this 20th day of April, A.D. 1943.
NATIONAL TRUST COMPANY LIMITED and Annie B. Cairns, Executors of the Estate of Dr. Thomas Franklin Cairns, Edmonton, Alberta, by their solicitor, R. C. Day.

One, a Scotch terrier, bared his teeth.

A Dachsund stretched in his box. Two breeds of bulldogs—Boston and English—regarded each other disinterestedly. Some police dogs, eying each passer-by sharply, condescended to touch noses with other varieties of dogdom. Collie remained aloof.

Mrs. W. D. Gardner, acting secretary, said that the number of animals at the show—a number being added to constantly at early hour Wednesday morning—was the largest in any show here for 25 years.

The show, held at the Palace Gardens in aid of the Kinsmen Milk for Britain Fund, had two outstanding Canadian judges officiating. They were Mrs. Pat Randall and Dr. J. Cooper of Saskatoon. A registered Cocker, donated by Mrs. J. S. Grant, was awarded as a prize.

A feature of the show was a special class for United States exhibitors stationed in Edmonton.

Many Present At Dog Show Kinsmen Club

Dogs of all kinds, all sizes, all colors and all shapes, bayed and yapped, growled and snarled, gazed disinterestedly or appeared concerned with other things before the first annual dog show of the Kinsmen Club of Edmonton in aid of its Milk for Britain fund began Wednesday morning.

Pioneer Passes At Peace River

PEACE RIVER, April 28.—One of the few remaining pioneers who bucked the trailless wilderness of the north, Herbert A. George, 60, died Wednesday morning from a heart seizure.

An employee of the Hudson's Bay Company moving from one trading post to another, Mr. George finally settled in Peace River landing in 1908, and remained there until the time of his death.

He retired as manager of the trading company about 1910 and went into private business. In 1911 he organized the first board of trade and worked actively towards having the Peace River country recognized by the outside world. He was instrumental in getting many outstanding writers tour the territory which he believed had a wonderful future. Working with him in this was Lt.-Col. J. K. Cornwall, D.S.O., known as "Peace River Jim."

Mr. George was keenly interested in oil development of the territory and during the past year he collaborated with John R. McNicoll, manager for Turner-Davenport, in an effort to have the Peace River oil development question brought before the House of Commons.

Canadian Record Set as Completed Vessel Launched

A CANADIAN SEAPORT, April 28.—(CP)—A record in Canadian shipbuilding was set yesterday when the 10,000-ton cargo vessel Fort Carillon was launched fully equipped and with steam up. As the vessel slid down the ways her whistle was blowing, her guns were mounted on her deck and she was ready in every detail for the test run. This was the first time a fully equipped vessel has been launched from a Canadian shipyard and may establish a British Empire record, shipbuilders said.

Italian General Urges Air Raids On United States

NEW YORK, April 28.—(AP)—An Italian general, smarting under the fierce aerial lambasting given Italy by American fliers, has called upon Hitler to launch Axis air attacks upon the United States, the German radio declared last night.

The time has come to supplement submarine warfare with Axis and Japanese air attacks, and Hitler's "word that enemy attacks should be answered bomb-for-bomb be also put in practice against the cities and factories of the United States," the general said.

The broadcast, quoting a Rome publication, was received by the Associated Press. The general's name appeared to be given as Fegere.

Defer Action on Sending Refugees To North Africa

HAMILTON, Bermuda, April 28.—(AP)—The question of where European refugees should be settled in North Africa has been deferred for later decision, probably by an inter-governmental committee to be set up by Great Britain and the United States, it was learned reliably last night.

Delegations from both countries meeting here declined to discuss the matter, but the impression was gained that a previously-reported compromise decision had been turned down by the respective governments.

Apprehend Youths

Four youths who broke into a trailer parked near Portage avenue and 115 street were caught and taken to police station Tuesday afternoon. Ages of the lads ranged from 10 to 13 years. A bottle of glue, and a can of tire cement were among the articles that had been removed from the trailer, entry into which had been made by smashing a window.

Tells of Damage By U.S. Bombers In Raid on France

LONDON, April 28. — (CP) — Dingle M. Foot, parliamentary secretary for the ministry of economic warfare, told workers in a Scottish factory today that United States heavy bombers in their raid on the Renault works outside Paris April 4 damaged more than 40 shops and robbed Germany of at least 1,000 trucks and other war materials.

Foot declared Germany's production of trucks was insufficient for her needs and that her pool of contemplative decision had been almost exhausted in 1942.

C.P. Air Lines Club Sponsors Social Event

Unanimously acclaimed as an outstanding success, inaugural dance of a recently formed sports and social club of employees of C.P. Air Lines in Edmonton, known as The Airliners, was held at The Barn Tuesday night, with 450 employees and invited friends in attendance.

Capt. Charlie Robinson was master of ceremonies and violin solos by Capt. Neil McCulloch were enjoyed between dances.

General Manager Grant McConachie and Mrs. McConachie, were the chief hosts to the employees, relatives and friends.

Honor guests included superintendent of western lines districts, who are attending a conference in Edmonton, including W. F. Catton, Winnipeg; U. S. Wagner, White-horse district; F. R. R. "Ted" Fields, B.C. district; W. E. Gilbert, MacKenzie district; R. W. Ryan, formerly of Saskatchewan district, and W. T. Bunn, Saskatchewan.

OTHER FRIENDS

C. C. Becker, assistant to the general manager, R. B. Barney' Phillips, special assistant to the general manager and H. Hollick-Kenyon, operations supervisor at Edmonton and supervisor of pilot training, were other officials in attendance.

The committee in charge of the dance was made up of the following:

Andy Cunningham, Neil Lawrence, Al Tyrrell, Leo McKinnon, and Ralph Marshall.

Other functions will be held in the near future.

Bracken Likely Here on May 17

Edmonton Chamber of Commerce officials stated Wednesday it is likely that John Bracken, leader of the Progressive Conservative party, will speak at a luncheon here on May 17. Although arrangements have not been definitely completed it is probable that Mr. Bracken will speak at a luncheon under the auspices of the Chamber of Commerce and some other city body.

The leader of the Progressive-Conservative Party is at present on the Pacific coast. It is thought he will return to Ottawa via Canada before coming to Edmonton.

The contemplated address would be the first made in Edmonton by the former Manitoba premier since he was named leader of the Progressive-Conservative Party.

Missing Cochrane Resident Is Found Dead by R.C.M.P.

CALGARY, April 28 — (CP) — William Henry Baxter, 71, was found dead near his home 17 miles northeast of Cochrane Sunday, R.C.M.P. in Calgary reported yesterday.

Baxter, who has no known relatives in Canada, had been reported missing from his shack in the Cochrane district April 14 and a search party had gone out to look for him two days in the past week.

Coroner Dr. George R. Johnston said no inquest would be held into the death, which was caused by a heart attack.

Five Prominent Frenchmen Escape Nazi-Held France

LONDON, April 28 — (CP) — Fighting French headquarters announced tonight that five prominent Frenchmen had escaped from Nazi-occupied France and arrived in London to join Gen. Charles de Gaulle.

They are Dr. Henri Queuille, food minister in the Pierre Reynaud cabinet, Pierre Vienot, undersecretary of state in the Blum cabinet in 1936, Georges Mandel, secretary of French trade unions, and Paul Poimboeuf, member of the board of French Christian trade unions, and Gen. Georges Suffren.

Calgarian Fined $4,601 on Five Currency Counts

CALGARY, April 28 — (CP) — Fines totalling $4,601 and costs were imposed on George Harris, Calgary, in police court yesterday, when he pleaded guilty to five charges involving American currency. Fines and costs were paid immediately.

This was the first case of its kind to be heard in police court for many years.

Boy Is Hurt

Edward St. Pierre, 5 years old, of 10063 94 street, was treated for injuries 4o his fingers at the hospital Wednesday morning. The little boy caught his fingers in a washing machine.

City Man Owns Stamp of Type Recalls Former War

Creating Interest in Africa

A stamp, identical with one that recently turned up in Pretoria, South Africa, and caused great interest among philatelists both in this country and abroad, is owned by an Edmonton man, G. D. Patterson. 10965 98 street who has had the stamp in his possession since 1920.

The stamp was issued in the Anglo-Boer war and is a type-set label, black on yellow, inscribed "Commando Brief - O. V. S. - Franko." These "franks" were used, as postage stamps, by the leaders of the commandants and field cornets the trouble of initialing letters sent by the burghers at the front to relatives and friends.

Known as "The Commando" stamp, it was the property of A. P. Buchapfel, a chemist, in the Orange Free State, appointed field postmaster by the Boers.

Mr. Patterson, who for years has been an enthusiastic stamp collector, expressed pleasure at having one of the stamps in his collection.

The first came into possession of the stamp when he purchased an album from a veteran of the South African war in 1920. How many of these stamps are still in existence he was unable to state but believed that many people who had a hold of them would have simply thrown them away thinking them to be of no value. They are not regular postage stamps.

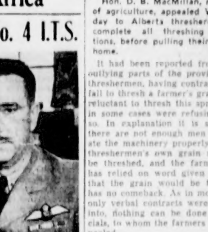

COLLECTS FRANKS

Mr. Peterson himself has made a point of collecting franks such as these and has several used at different times in Malta, South Africa and other places where they have been used.

He intends getting in touch with prominent stamp authorities to see if the "Commando" is extremely rare and valuable, but doesn't expect to be made a millionaire out of it.

He has in his own collection over 14,000 varieties of stamps but states that recently, due to eye strain, he has not done as much work with them as formerly.

Minister Asks Completion of All Threshing

Hon. D. B. MacMillan, minister of agriculture, appealed Wednesday to Alberta threshermen to complete all threshing operations, before pulling their outfits home.

It had been reported from some outlying parts of the province that threshermen, having contracted last fall to thresh a farmer's grain, were reluctant to thresh this spring, and in some cases were refusing to do so. In explanation it is said that there are not enough men to operate the machinery properly, or that threshermen's own grain needs to be threshed, and the farmer, who has relied on word given last fall that the grain would be threshed, has no comeback. As in most cases, only verbal contracts were entered into, flushing can be had by officials, to whom the farmers have appealed.

However, in view of the importance of the food production campaign in Alberta, and in view of the manpower shortage, it is hoped by department officials in Edmonton that this trouble will be kept to a minimum. Because of the shortage of labor, and because of the possibility in most cases of obtaining agricultural machinery, it is of vital necessity for farmers and threshermen to co-operate in every way possible, to ensure the utmost use of all available machinery.

Mr. MacMillan's message follows: "I appeal to all threshermen to do all in their power to complete threshing operations and to keep their outfits home for the season. A few cases have come to our attention where farmers have not been able to get their threshing done, because the outfits were being pulled home. It is important not only to the individual with unthreshed crops, but also to the country as a whole that as much of the crops as possible be threshed before more damage is caused."

The minister commended the co-operation being displayed by farmers this spring in finishing the threshing. In many districts most of the fields are cleaned up, and in others another week will see practically all the crop threshed.

ways, when you try to press them in a hurry).

"No watch pocket."

"O.K." (No watch).

"Say, what's your waistline?"

"I dunno. Forty-two I guess."

"Well, we'll see," said Joe, producing his four-foot tape.

"Breathe in," says he.

"Now breathe out."

"Huh. Forty-three. What size those you got on?"

"Forty-two," says I, a little mystified by this algebraic ceremony.

"Take 'em off and let's see," says Joe.

"O.K."

THE PLOT DEEPENS

While Joe did his tape-measure calculations on my last year's trousers, I wondered what kind of a spectacle would be created if friend wife marched in, complete with her sister, and her sister's brother's wife. Some spectacle, I thought, and let it go at that.

"Hah!" cried Joe, with the eager air of a bloodhound on the trail, lap. "These pants are forty-three."

"So what?" I wondered, all the while bastering the civility of my outward appearance.

"How much you want to pay for a suit?"

"Fifty dollars," says I.

"Hah," cried Joe. "Fifty-five dollars to you. To anybody else, 50 dollars. But you, 43 inches waist, $55."

This wasn't a joke any longer. So I asked, "how come?"

"Government order," says Joe. "Government order. Gotta use cloth. Forty-two inches, O.K. Forty-three inches, ten per cent."

Joe got out his file, and sure enough, there's the order. Ten per cent extra for outsize suits.

"Well, what do I do?" I asked Joe. "How can I help it?"

"You pay $55," said Joe.

"But I don't want to." I yelled back. "Only paid $50 last year."

"O.K." said Joe. "You go buy a tent, cut a couple a holes, use that. It make you a good tent. No. 1 canvas, $35."

"I'll take the suit."

The argument ended there. But it's still discrimination.

They can't do without stout men. They're good for morale. Mothers go to their children, "Don't you eat any more candy, or you'll look like that funny man over there."

Only it's not funny any more. Now were being taxed for being fat.

Germans Imprison Benes' Relatives For Latest Speech

LONDON April 28.—(CP)—The Prague radio declared last night that a further number of persons related to President Eduard Benes of the Czecho-Slovak government in London were sent to concentration camps as reprisals for the Sunday broadcast in which Benes told his countrymen to engage in "active military events soon."

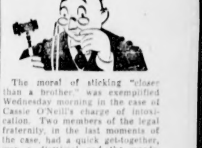

Some of his relatives were imprisoned, the broadcast said, when Benes declared in a March 15 broadcast that German military forces would experience defeat all over Europe this year.

Nazi Arrests

NEW YORK, April 28.—(BUP)—Ten Frenchmen have been arrested on charges of attempting to assassinate Nazi collaborationist Marcel Deat. The Berlin radio as usual labels the accused "Communists."

parade marches past. Full instructions will be given to senior parties on the parade ground—R. C. Arthurs, Major, Parade Marshal.

Before Magistrate

The moral of sticking "closer than a brother" was underscored in Wednesday morning in the case of Cassie O'Neil's charge of intoxication. Two members of the legal fraternity, in the last moments of the case, had a quick get-together, won a dismissal and the words, "Thank you, m'lud," from Magistrate A. I. Millar, K.C. Accused's lawyer was R. Cross. Evidence for the defence was to the effect that the accused had entered his premises in an intoxicated condition. He had asked her to make less noise before calling police, who gave further testimony that the accused was seen at the landlord, did a bit of kicking, and was taken to the police station in a patrol car.

Dismissal came when the results of legal collaboration were voiced: "There is evidence of the room being house being a public place."

Wallace K. Mercer had two registration certificates on his person when searched, after his arrest for being intoxicated. A railway towel, also found in his pocket, was the ground for another charge. With three charges against him, the accused appeared before Magistrate. He had found the second registration certificate and was keeping it for a friend. The towel, he said, he worked at Dawson Creek, the charge of breach of the National Registration Act was dismissed. On the towel charge he was fined $20 and costs or 30 days, and a fine of $5 and costs or 10 days for having in his possession stolen property. The accused stated he was intoxicated on the train when he picked up the towel which he thought was his own.

Two charges, one of vagrancy, the other of theft, concerned Robert Charles Gibson and Korabura L. Ikeno. The first named in laying a charge of theft which he found himself involved, on the former charge, Ikeno had been given $40 by Gibson, for safekeeping. It had been arranged that they meet later, when the complainant had "sobered up a bit." Ikeno did not do so, and did not spoken to the accused about the money until his arrest. The accused, by the time of his arrest, had spent the money and was said to have told the complainant he would get it for him. Found guilty, the case was remanded to May 3. Consideration May will be given if the $40 are repaid. Gibson, on the vagrancy charge, pleaded guilty.

The court was told the accused's mother, who had written a letter to the police saying that her son was missing, had given him the money with which he would buy horses. Work on the farm could not go on without horses, said the court. The case was remanded to Thursday.

Warehouses Glutted

Russia Unable to Handle Volume of War Materials Sent Via Persian Corridor

By CLYDE FARNSWORTH and GEORGE TUCKER

SOMEWHERE IN IRAN, April 28—(AP)—War material is reaching Russia via the Persian corridor faster than the Russians can take it. Their warehouses and freight yards are glutted.

We inspected Soviet supply dumps deep within the Russian zone of northern Iran and found vast quantities of war equipment still not moved to the fighting fronts because the rate of arrival has caught up with and surpassed Russian facilities.

We followed the corridor from the Persian Gulf to within a few miles of the Caspian area, visiting docks, rail centres and great assembly plants, and saw the fruits of the extensive effort that has transformed the Persian plains and plateaus into a vast conveyor belt over which move planes, tanks, armored cars, raw materials, explosives, trucks, jeeps and guns for Russian soldiers.

LINES OF TRACTORS

We saw lines of tractors pulling seven-ton trailers in twisting convoys miles long carrying supplies through the ragged defiles of the Pushtikuh mountains to the Red army.

We saw American locomotives pulling American rolling stock manned by experts from the Erie, New York Central Pennsylvania and other American lines. We saw great cranes lifting locomotives out of barges on to dockside tracks to help in movement of this mass of materials northward over hundreds of miles of difficult terrain.

Operations in the Persian corridor fall into four great divisions:

ONE: AIR

A palm-edged island is the heart of the air effort, the reception centre for fighters and bombers.

The fighters are trucked in crates from cargo ships, assembled by experts and then inspected and given test flights. The bombers arrive under their own power manned by ferry pilots to whom the ocean crossing is only a workday task.

TWO: PORTS

Today the headwaters of the Persian gulf present a noisy panorama of docks, winches and cranes.

On the docks, we saw hundreds of thousands of tons of munitions. We saw tanks coming off ships in a continuous stream.

We saw acres of cases of tinned foods, mostly meat. We saw cargoes of raw steel and ores. We saw fighter planes being swung ashore with monotonous regularity.

We saw barbed wire for Russian defences, Tommy guns for Russian soldiers—and diapers for Russian babies.

THREE: TRUCKS

Modern assembly lines are discharging trucks and armored cars at the rate of one every four minutes. General Motors experts operate the lines for the United States Army.

Two-thirds of all trucks coming off the assembly lines are turned over to the Russians who load them to capacity and take them into Russia. The remainder go into great fleet pools which make up the shuttle service between unloading wharves and Russian acceptance centres.

FOUR: RAIL

The 1,400-miles Transiranian railway into which abdicated Shah Riza Kahn Pahlevi poured $90,000,000 was virtually a ready-made supply line for Russia, although the old Shah never intended it that way.

Its most serious shortcomings are dictated by the terrain and the fact that it is only single-tracked.

All along the line switchyards, sidings, maintenance shops and quarters for the American battalions who man these installations are steadily expanding.

As a phase of extensive German economic enterprise in Iran most of the old shop and line equipment is of German manufacture. Krupp locomotives with red wheels even now are teamed with American locomotives, and railway shops are filled with mammoth steelworking tools of German origin.

The toy of the Shah has been turned into a weapon for defence of the Union of Soviet Socialist Republics.

Charter Ideals Must Be Gained By Individuals

WINNIPEG, April 28—(CP)—Dr. F. Cyril James, chairman of the Canadian committee on post-war reconstruction, said here last night attainment of Atlantic Charter ideals rested on the shoulders of individuals and assurance of the fulfilment of these ideals depended largely on the educational program offered young Canadians.

The McGill university principal made this observation in a speech prepared for delivery to members of the Manitoba educational association at a general meeting under the auspices of the Manitoba government.

VERSAILLES EXAMPLE

He said the fate of the treaty of Versailles at the hands of the United States senate "offers a memorable example of the ineffectiveness of an international agreement that was not consciously supported by the majority of the people, and the history books are full of other treaties which became obsolete when a new generation had grown up with ideas different from those which inspired the signatories."

He asked was it too much "to suggest that Canada's future contribution to the attainment of the ideals set forth in the Atlantic Charter depends fundamentally upon the quality of the education that we are giving to the young Canadians who are now in our schools and colleges?"

"Your responsibility and mine is clear," he said, "it will take a long while to develop an educational system that is worthy of the ideals set forth in the Atlantic Charter, but if we really mean the things we foreshadow in the post-war world we dare not cease from struggling towards the goal.

EDUCATION'S PURPOSE

The purpose of education is to make our children's children happier, to enrich them in the things of the spirit as well as to augment their material comfort, the attainment of that purpose depends upon the effort of each individual in Canada."

Pension Plan Draws Protest From Teachers for discussion and not be dealt with in a hasty manner.

Chairman of the finance committee, R. L. Sutherland who had submitted the report then moved that clause four be held over for conference which the board agreed to do.

TO FILL VACANCY

Clause two of the report recommended that applications be called to fill the vacancy created by the retirement of W. T. Tait, attendance officer, to become effective June 30, 1943. It further recommended that the salary for this position be set at a minimum of $1,500 with annual increments of $100 to a maximum of $2,000. This was adopted by the board.

TEACHERS' INSURANCE SCHEME IS PROPOSED

It is amazing that teachers have no life or accident insurance scheme, R. L. Sutherland, a member of the Edmonton School board stated at the regular weekly meeting of the board held Tuesday night in the Civic block.

Mr. Sutherland's statement was made when the board was reviewing a report of the cost of allowances for sick leave and other absences which revealed that there was more absenteeism due to sickness among school employes during the period covering January to March, 1943, than at any time since the influenza epidemic.

COSTS INCREASED

Extra gross cost to the board during the period covered amounted to $4,627.80, it was shown, while the cost during the same period in 1942 was $2,965.82.

In his opinion, Mr. Sutherland stated, the present system of sick allowances for teachers was most desirable from the teacher's standpoint. It was unlikely that the teachers themselves would do anything to make the present system less expensive for the board, he averred.

Total number of days absent amounted to 1,607 while the salary allowed was $12,487.17. Total salary not allowed amounted to $1,990.34, during the three month period.

Speaking on the report, M. M. Downey stated that the teachers should certainly have a retirement and insurance scheme.

H. S. Clark speaking for the teachers stated that at one period the teachers did have a sick insurance scheme but that the company with which the scheme was carried out found the amount it had to pay out too high and it was abandoned.

H. Gerry also speaking for the teachers stated that all phases of the matter should be carefully examined.

REFERRED TO COMMITTEE

The board did not adopt the report at the meeting but referred it to the finance committee for consideration.

A notice of motion submitted by L. D. Hyndman in regard to speakers of the school was set over due to the absence of Mr. Hyndman.

The motion read that "except with the consent in writing of the board, no person shall address, question or lecture, any class, assembly, or gathering of pupils in or upon any property of the board, respecting any matter involving political, religious or moral issues; provided that these regulations shall not be deemed to include any person employed by the board."

43 Countries To Attend U.S. Food Meeting

By J. F. SANDERSON

WASHINGTON, April 28. — (CP) — Representatives of 43 countries will meet at Hot Springs, Va., May 18 to discuss a wide range of problems relating to production and distribution of food in the post-war period but without making commitments or agreements, it was announced yesterday by the state department.

In announcing the conference agenda, the state department said the meetings will be purely technical and exploratory in scope, with any recommendations directed to the governments concerned. It was suggested, however, that permanent organizations on some aspects of food distribution, particularly commodity arrangements to assure equitable prices and adequate supplies, might develop eventually from the deliberations of the conference.

Canada will be represented by a delegation of agricultural experts but their names have not been made public. The conference is expected to last at least three weeks.

Topics for discussion were segregated under three headings—consumption, production and distribution.

The conference is distinct from another United Nations gathering, to be held later, on relief supplies for war-ravaged nations. The one is designed to set up an organization to handle relief during and after the war, the other is a long-range survey of agricultural conditions in the post-war period, in an attempt to plan production and distribution of food on the basis of world requirements.

36 Survivors Land At East Coast Port

AN EAST COAST CANADIAN PORT, April 28.—(CP)—Thirty-six survivors of a merchant ship sunk off the Irish coast—including Canadians, Britons and Chinese—have been landed here. Many of the men had suffered frozen feet while awaiting rescue. They reported more than 30 of their shipmates were lost in the sinking. The men left here by train tonight for an unannounced destination. Names of the Canadians in the group were not available.

Net Shipping Loss in 1942 Million Tons

WASHINGTON, April 28.—(AP)—On the basis of only partly complete figures on merchant ship construction, the United States navy department reported yesterday that the Allies last year suffered a net loss of more than 1,000,000 tons of merchant shipping.

This net figure was not fully conclusive in that it was arrived at by counting total Allied losses but not all new construction by all the Allied Nations.

This was the third report on ship losses issued within a week and was designed, the navy said, to clear up conflict between the two previous reports.

FOLLOWS CONFERENCE

The statement followed a conference between Navy Secretary Frank Knox and Senator Ralph Brewster (Rep.-Me.), a member of the senate's Truman committee.

The Truman commitie said in a report last Thursday that sinkings of Allied vessels by German submarines in 1942 totalled approximately 12,000,000 tons and exceeded the aggregate of new British and American construction. Friday, Knox said that Allied construction had exceeded Allied losses for 1942.

The Allied loss figures used as a basis for yesterday's announcement included losses from all causes — submarine sinkings, mines, airplanes, capture or otherwise.

"Records kept since the war began in 1939 show that submarines alone account for slightly over 50 per cent of all merchant vessels sunk by both sides," the statement said.

CLARIFICATION ASKED

A naval spokesman was asked for clarifying information as to the finality of the net loss figure of 1,000,000 tons given in the navy's statement. He said:

"The 1,000,000 gross tons net loss is the difference between all Allied losses and Allied construction on which statistics are available."

No further clarification of the statement could be obtained from the navy spokesman.

THE EASY WAY

to buy More Victory Bonds

10% Down—Balance on Easy Terms

Victory Bonds are something that everyone in Canada should have. They are the only thing you can buy on the instalment plan with just 10% down payment. You can buy as many as you want for they are not rationed or affected by priorities.

Buying Victory Bonds on the instalment plan is as good as buying a home, a refrigerator, an out-board motor or a car on the instalment plan because it amounts to the same thing in the end. For when these articles are back on the market after the war, you can buy them with the proceeds of your bonds. In the meantime, if you need money in an emergency, you can get cash for them at any time.

Buying Victory Bonds on the instalment plan is easy. Anyone earning money can do it. For each $100 bond you wish to buy, make a $10 down payment when you sign the application with your bank or your Victory Loan salesman. Then you pay the balance on monthly instalments as follows:

June 1st $18.00 August 1st $18.00
July 1st $18.00 September 1st $18.00
October 1st $18.64

If you have already bought Victory Bonds for cash, buy more bonds—on the instalment plan. If you haven't ready cash to buy your bond—buy on the instalment plan.

DARK JUNGLES

By JOHN C. FLEMING AND LOIS EBY

THE STORY: Barry Fielding has come to Guatemala in search of a quicksilver mine operated by the Quiche Indian tribe, who are hostile to whitemen. After a long and arduous journey he and his Mexican guide, Jose, finally reach Quiche territory. The chief and his council listen to Barry's plea that America needs quicksilver. They promise to give him an answer in the morning. During the night an Indian girl is attacked and Barry's letter-case is found in her tent. There is an immediate trial. The girl is sentenced to death. Barry and Jose are held prisoner but manage to escape. On the trail again, Barry feels a sudden surge of fever and knows he's been stricken with malaria.

MUCH-NEEDED REST

CHAPTER XIII

CONCERN shadowed Jose's dark face. "Malaria!" he echoed dismayed.

Even before Barry's short laugh of self-disgust ended, his knees buckled under him. Jose caught him and helped him to a seat against the trunk of a giant tamarack. "Stay here," he commanded. "I will find you bed."

Jose strode off, to return soon with his arms piled with fragrant pine needles. On the floor of a shallow cave in the rock ledge by the waterfall he spread them, then came back for Barry.

Barry was pulling a box from his coat pocket. He handed it to Jose with trembling hands. "Good thing—they weren't left—in saddle bags," he grinned unsteadily.

Jose opened the box to frown in perplexity at the unfamiliar tablets. "But these are not quinine," he objected.

"Atabrine," Barry told him with effort. "Give them to me . . . instructions . . . on box."

Jose shook his head. "You should have quinine," he mourned.

Apprehension rang warningly through Barry's blurring senses. It would be typical of a jungle man like Jose to throw away the medicine because it was different. He realized it would soon be too late to do anything about it. Already his mind was wandering under the heat of his fever. He forced himself to concentrate on the problem. He tried to fix the glazing eyes on the powerful man kneeling beside him.

"Jose!"

"Si, senor."

"Those tablets. They are better than quinine. Do you hear me?"

"S." But the man's voice was still mournful and unbelieving.

"Do you promise—on your word of honor—to give me the tablets —two each hour?"

For a long minute Jose didn't answer. Then, just as Barry's whirling senses told him he had failed, he heard the man's mumbled, "Si, senor." Relieved, he collapsed against Jose's arm.

Slowly, he floated back to consciousness, began to realize some of his hallucinations were facts. The sound of cascading water continued after he opened his eyes. And an other fainter sound—wind sighing through trees. He felt soothed and peaceful, though he could see almost nothing in the dim light about him. He raised himself on an elbow and his head struck against the top of the cave. Dimly he recalled the trip—Jose. He crawled from the cave and got to his feet. His head whirled and he leaned against the rock ledge for support, while he looked about him.

It was a dazzling morning. Sun sparkled on the cascading water at the cliff's edge, and lay molten over the rocky ledges and dark trees of the mountainside. Evidences of Jose's vigilance were all about. Tamarack branches had been laid over the entrance to the cave. The remains of a fire still smoldered on the rock ledge. Roughly hewn wooden cups dried in the sun. As he watched, the huge figure of Jose, himself, strode out of the forest of pines, game slung over his shoulder.

At sight of Barry, he waved an arm and hurried to join him. "You feel better!" he smiled warmly.

"Thanks to you, Jose," Barry muttered, returning the smile. "You gave me the medicine, eh?"

Jose pulled the small box from his pocket and showed Barry it was almost empty. "It is good medicine like you say," he acknowledged. "Each two hours I make you take like you say. So I cannot go back to plantation and tell where we are."

"How long have we been here?" Barry demanded.

The Mexican counted on his stubby fingers. "Five days," he said.

Barry moaned. "How have you lived all that time?"

Jose swung the animals he had killed from his shoulder. "Two red squirrels! . . . Very good," he said simply. He took a folding tin cup from his pocket and opened it proudly. "I make broth for you in this," he added.

As Jose gathered brush for a fire, Barry asked, "What about the Quiches? Did they follow us?"

Jose knelt to blow on the small flame. "They did not find us," he said. "We are very fortunate." When the flame swept through the twigs, he took the two squirrels and went to kneel at the water's edge with a murderous looking hunting knife.

"I'll have to go back," Barry worried aloud. "You will go with me, won't you, Jose? I have to prove to that chief I was framed. I've got to get those mines!"

Jose listened impassively as he skinned and cleaned the squirrels. He cut a small chunk of meat and dropped it into the water-filled cup. "We eat," he said stolidly. "Then we try to make plantation before you feel sick again. You need more good medicine before you go back anywhere."

Barry's head was beginning to ache again. His body felt stiff and weak. Jose gave him the last two atabrine tablets, and later a cup of the steaming broth. Then he stretched out on the soft, fragrant bed of pine needles.

"You rest now," Jose said. Maybe tonight when the moon comes out you will strong enough to ride again."

Barry marvelled at the patience and gentleness of the big Mexican. The man had saved his life all right. He was lucky to have had such a guide. If he had only been as lucky with the Quiches, he thought bitterly.

Through half closed eyes he watched the Mexican as he made neat rolls of their blankets, led the mules up from the thicket where they had been tied to graze, took brushes and stroked their grey coats until they shone in the sunlight.

Barry dozed off then and must have slept for several hours. When he awakened the sun was low and the pine trees were casting long shadows up the slope. Jose was sitting by the campfire fixing some more broth. Barry felt cool now and refreshed.

Jose turned as he heard his voice.

"I feel much better, Jose," he said. "Maybe tonight we could go back to the Quiche country."

Jose looked grim and shook his head.

"No, senor, that would be folly."

"But I must clear myself with them!"

"This is not the time," Jose said quietly. "You feel better now because of the medicine you have taken. Later when that wears off you might feel worse again. This fever is very bad stuff. We can not take chances of your getting sick again out here."

"But you said tonight we could travel again!"

"Si, senor, we travel, but not to the Quiches. We go back to the plantation where you can rest from your sickness."

Barry felt a tide of keen disappointment surge through him as he thought of delaying his business with the Quiches.

"You rest now until the moon comes out," Jose said. "Then I give you more broth and we will start."

C.N.R. Buys 167 Passenger Cars

MONTREAL, April 28.—Overcoming wartime difficulties in obtaining new passenger equipment, the Canadian National Railways purchased from the Pullman Company 167 units of various types, 154 of which have been modernized and converted into colonist cars, first class coaches and cafe cars, renovating the remaining thirteen as sleeping and bedroom cars.

This formed an important contribution to the wartime passenger transportation of the system, particularly in dealing with military traffic. Most of the conversion work was performed in the railway's car shops at London, Ont., and Port Huron, Mich., and Transcona and Fort Rouge shops at Winnipeg, the last car having just been completed.

"In the daily handling of thousands of troops over lines of the National Railways, colonist cars are in great demand when large distances have to be travelled as they provide extra comfort for this type of service," stated E. R. Batley, chief of motive power and car equipment, C.N.R. "For shorter runs, first class coaches get the call and for this work 89 were allocated from the above total.

"These 167 cars are of all-steel construction, including the trucks, and are suitable for their new service," said Mr. Batley. This equipment has considerably aided the railway's problem of furnishing sufficient passenger accommodation even with the greatly increased traffic.
